ROBINSON CAPTURED IN CALIFORNIA

HOUSE TO ACT ON EXPANSION OF CURRENCY

6 HOUR DEBATE ON ISSUE LISTED FOR TODAY

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, May 11 (AP)—A tumultuous house voted today to take up the politically-explosive Frazier-Lemke farm debt refinancing bill and the first real currency expansion issue of the session.

The Democratic house leadership failed by a 67 vote margin to prevent consideration of the bill that would call for the issuance of $3,000,000,000 in new currency, and then offered no resistance to a rule under which it will be called up tomorrow for six hours of debate.

Members of the Democratic high command contended, however, that today's balloting was no real test and that the bill would be defeated on the vote on passage next Wednesday or Thursday.

On the other hand, Representative Lemke (R-N. D.), co-author, said he expected the measure to command even more votes on passage than it did today.

Denies Inflation

"There aren't seventy-five members who know what the bill is about," he said. "I'm satisfied that after we have explained it, the membership will realize it is not inflation and that it will mean the salvation of the farmers and of the nation."

(The bill would authorize issuance of new currency for refinancing existing farm indebtedness, with farmers paying the government 1½ percent interest and 1½ percent principal over 47 years.)

First, by a 145 to 134 standing vote, and then by a 220 to 153 roll call ballot, the house agreed today to Lemke's motion to take the bill away from the rules committee, where it had been pigeonholed since early last session.

Immediately the chamber shouted down the opposition to adoption of the rule allowing six hours of Debate. To the expressed surprice of Speaker Byrns, there was no record vote on this.

The speaker had said earlier he expected the vote on a rule to be closer than on discharging the committee. But when the big margin was rolled up for the discharge, his lieutenants said they decided there was no point in forcing a roll call on the rule.

Under the present law, said Representative Connery (D-Mass.) the federal reserve system has "the power to inflate billions," so "we need not worry about a small $3,000,000,000 of currency."

Speaking as chairman of the labor committee, he said farm state congressmen had supported labor legislation and he intended to cooperate with them on the Frazier-Lemke bill, because there can be no prosperity until farmers are receiving more income and labor higher wages.

After the vote to discharge the rules committee, Majority Leader Bankhead of Alabama told reporters that it "has no significance, in my opinion, with reference to the vote on final passage."

"I know," he said, "there are a great many members on both sides who favored giving the house a chance to consider the bill who will not vote for it on final passage. I believe it will be beaten.

Passaic Mayor Named Manager Of Quadruplets

Passiac, N. J., May 11. (AP)—Mayor Benjamin F. Turner tonight became business manager of the New Jersey quintuplets, Frances, Frank, Ferdinand and Felix Kasper, born three days ago in St. Mary's hospital.

In the presence of Dr. Frank F. Jani, who delivered the babies Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kasper signed papers designating Mayor Turner as business manager for their four children.

The mayor said no offer to exhibit the children had been considered, but said he had accepted the offer of a San Francisco woman of $500 with which to purchase necessities for the babies, and $100 a month with which to pay the Kasper family's rent.

On Milk Diet Now

Turner said the offer was made in a telegram from Mrs. Edmond E. Herrscher, San Francisco.

The quadruplets went on a milk diet today after rallying quickly from a sinking spell which had St. Mary's hospital a bit worried for a while.

Except for the brief setback, the tiny babies—Frances, Frank, Ferdinand, and Felix—managed to hold their own so well that Dr. Jani regarded their condition as "encouraging."

Emil Kasper, a $22 a week railroad roundhouse worker who is worrying how to support the quadruplets and two other children on his salary, visited his wife at the hospital during the day. He and the two other children, Ellen, 3, and Ralph, 1 1-2, found her doing nicely and well on the way to recovery.

The quadruplets took a turn for the worse in the forenoon, running sub-normal temperatures and losing their healthy color. Dr. Jani was notified and immediately ordered human milk for his small patients. Previously that had been fed a diet of water, whisky and glucose from an eye dropper. While some milk was obtained locally an additional ten ounce supply started here from a New York dispensary. The babies recovered from their sinking spell and regained their previous condition.

Incidentally, the babies are "identical" quadruplets, Dr. Jani said. They all come from a single cell, which divided into four parts, and not from four separate cells. They should all look alike when they grow up, he said.

In Little Ferry, where the Kaspers live, there was still much ado and excitement in their neighborhood. Some friends think the quads are "wonderful," but most say "No, thank you." No plans have been made yet for a welcome home celebration for Mrs. Kasper.

GOVERNOR HITS AT INJUSTICES

Fitzgerald Is Keynoter at GOP Convention in Wyoming

Casper, Wyo., May 11 (AP)—Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald of Michigan told the Republican state convention here today the party "has a bigger job on its hands than to recite the long list of injustices and extravagances that have come out of the blunderings of the new deal."

The keynote speaker asserted the Republican party "must call to its side that type of stalwart citizen who sickens at the thought of a welfare questionnaire, but prays for a regular pay envelope.

"It must face frankly the fact that there is something wrong in an economic system which permits great fortunes to accumulate in industrial and commercial enterprises while the workers who produce these surpluses are never far from want.

Competes With Industry

"Let the miracle men and wonder workers put fourth golden dreams of something for nothing, or a life without labor and a government hand-out for every need. Give the Republican party the allegiance of those who demand only the American right to work for the high privilege of living in the American way, and we need have no fear over the outcome of the election."

The Michigan governor charged that taxes paid the federal government are being used in some instances to finance projects that compete with private industry.

He said a shirt factory in Portland, Mich., had to lay off 500 men because the federal government

GERMAN SHIP PLANS SPEEDY VOYAGE HOME

FAVORABLE WINDS FORECAST FOR DIRIGIBLE

BY GREGORY HEWLETT
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lakehurst, N. J., May 11 (AP)—The record-making German dirigible Hindenburg, visitor of the United States for two and one-half days, headed toward its homeland tonight.

With starry skies and artificial lights supplying a colorful setting, the majestic sky cruiser weighed-off from the Lakehurst naval air station at 10:27 p. m. (E. S. T.).

A half minute after the command "Up ship" rang out, the Zeppelin's motors sputtered and took hold. A moment later the ship headed southward into the wind, circled eastward over the little town of Lakehurst a mile away and then nosed toward the north.

Its route took it over New York City and thence out over the sea toward its home port at Frankfort-on-the-Main. Favorable winds and weather were forecast and its officers expected to reach the European coast in about 46 hours.

The leave-taking operations were as picturesque as its arrival at dawn Saturday.

47 Passengers Aboard

Its bow fastened to the mobile mooring mast, it was towed from the hangar at 9 o'clock (E. S. T.). A few minutes later, its tail was turned to the north and the ship was moved slowly to the mooring circle a quarter mile from the hangar.

A searchlight from atop the hangar played down its silvery sides, illuminating the name Hindenburg, the Olympic symbol and the Nazi swastika on the tail fins.

At the mooring cirle, the 47 passengers were helped up the gang plank. A cargo of 1,751 pounds of mail and 2,394 pounds of express was hoisted into its hold.

As weight was added water ballast to keep the ship on an even keel was loostened, spurting out at intervals both fore and aft.

While the passengers were mounting the gang plank, Dr. Hugo Eckener, most famous of all dirigable skippers and now president of the Zeppelin company which constructed the Hindenburg, stood about chatting with friends.

He was among the last to go aboard, entering the passenger quarters instead of the control cabin.

"Auf widersehen, auf weidersehen," he called out as he disappeared.

With all hatches closed, orders were sounded to make the ship ready for sailing.

"Stand by aft, up the shift aft," Lient. Commander George H. Mills, in charge of the landing crew, shouted through a megaphone.

At 10:21 p. m., the great airship was cut loose from the mooring mast.

Visits President

Dr. Eckener said officials in Washington whom he visited today had been "very friendly, very hopeful" about his plan for German-American commercial dirigible service across the north Atlantic but said there would be no decision until after the Hindenburg makes the ten round-trip demonstration flights planned for it this summer.

Of President Roosevelt, he said: "The president is a very wise man. He says one flight is no flight."

The grizzled airship expert said the Hindenburg would take the great circle route home as it did on its westward flight.

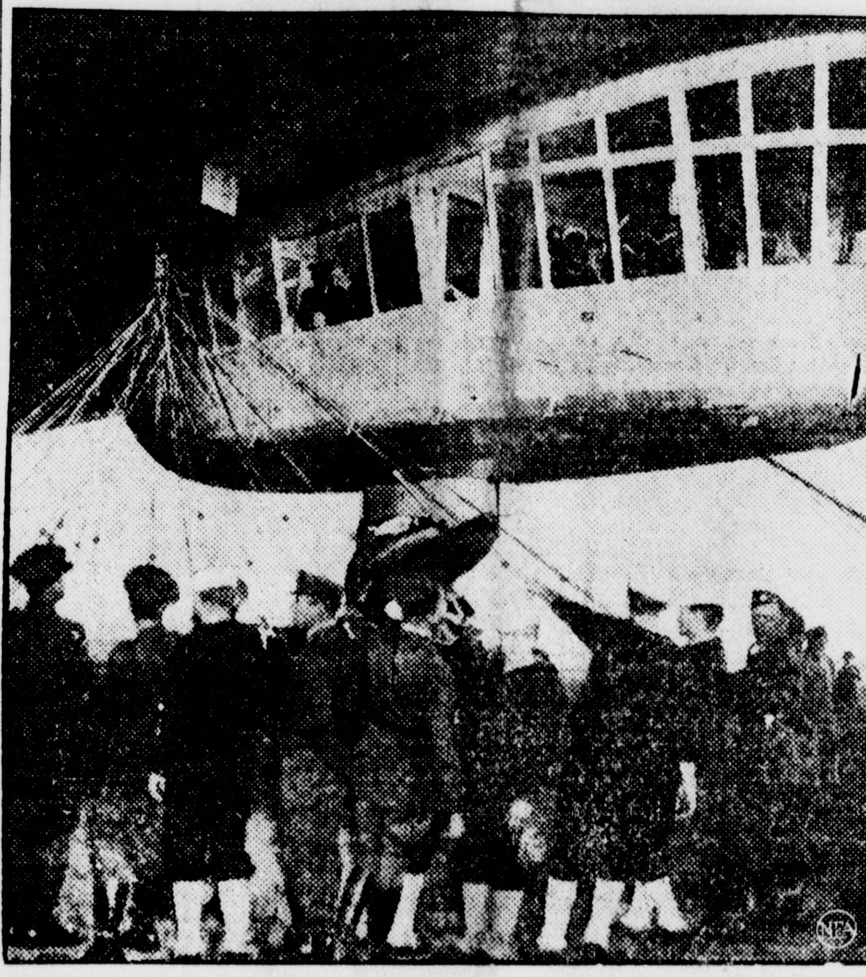
The first of the 53 passengers who booked passage for the eastward cruise to arrive at the station was Colonel Charles E. Bartley of Chicago. He said he was taking the trip for relaxation and for a thrill, and disclosed he had a social engagement with Adolf Hitler, Germany's chancellor.

Among those making the journey were Lieut. Commander J. M. Thornton and Lieut. H. T. Orville, U. S. naval officers stationed here, who will act as official observers.

Since it was towed into the hangar, station officers estimated today, approximately 100,000 persons visited the reservation.

One of the Hindenburg's missions, Dr. Hugo Eckener, veteran dirigible skipper and now president of the Zeppelin company, disclosed after his arrival, was to awaken the interest of the American public in lighter-than-air ships, and to restore confidence shaken by the disasters to the great navy ships, the Akron and the Macon.

'Wie Geht's; United States!'—the Record Flight at End



A new mode of transportation linking the Old World with the New had been successfully demonstrated when, as pictured here, the ground crew at Lakehurst, N. J., gently drew the giant Hindenburg to her mooring mast after her epochal flight from Germany. The ship's officers are seen in the control cabin directing the delicate task as soldiers and sailors tug on the mooring lines.

SIX SENTENCED TO DIE IN CHAIR

Robbers Shot Messenger During Holdup Last September

New York, May 11 (AP)—Six men were hurried to Sing Sing prison later today shortly after they were sentenced to the electric chair for the slaying of Edwin Esposito, 22-year-old subway company messenger, during a holdup.

Their arrival brought the number of occupants of the death house to 23, including two women Mrs. John Creighton and Mrs. Dorothy Sherwood. Mrs. Creighton was convicted of poisoning Mrs. Ada Applegate, and Mrs. Sherwood of drowning her baby.

The six defendants in the Esposito slaying were sentenced to die during the week of June 22, but an appeal is expected to delay the execution several months.

They are Salvatore Scata, 18; Joseph Bolognia, 23; Theodore Didonne, 30; Dominick Zizzo, 22; Eugene Bruno, 20; and Sam Kimmel, 19.

It is customary at Sing Sing to execute in a group all participants in a slaying. To date, five is the largest number ever executed together at the prison for one crime, but on the night these five men were put to death, Aug. 12, 1912, two other men were executed for other slayings. Another man, convicted with the five for the murder of Mrs. Henry Hall of Crotion, N. Y., got a stay of execution.

The Esposito shooting took place in Brooklyn last September as he emptied a safe at Avenue X station of the Brooklyn-Manhattan subway. The robbers seized a bag containing $180 and fled in an automobile. The six men were arrested three days later.

Bishop's Ring Is Lost In Detroit

Detroit, May 11 (AP)—A search was under way today for the consecrated bishop's ring of the Most Rev. Joseph C. Plagens, bishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Marquette. Bishop Plagens came to Detroit for a physical examination at Henry Ford hospital ten days ago. He discovered the ring missing later the same day. The ring, worth $1,000, is valued as a sacerdotal object of veneration.

Fires Two Shots At Automobile Thieves

Mt. Clemens, Mich., May 11 (AP)—A. E. Priehs, Macomb county farmer, told officers today he fired two shots at automobile thieves who were stripping a motorcar reported stolen by Edward Carney of Detroit. Priehs said both of his shots missed the men, but that they fled, leaving the automobile intact.

LEAGUE FIGHTS ITALY'S CLAIMS

Aloiso Says Council Has No Authority Over Ethiopia

BY WADE WERNER
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Geneva, May 11 (AP)—The League of Nations council, deadlocked with Premier Benito Mussolini on the conquest of Ethiopia, was summoned for a secret, unofficial session tonight to the home of Joseph A. C. Avenol, league secretary-general.

The purpose of the meeting, it was understood, was to discuss what action the council will take on the Italo-Ethiopian war tomorrow.

Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italian delegate who earlier had abruptly left a secret council meeting, did not attend tonight's gathering.

British delegates said the league would resist Italy's claim of sovereignty.

"Futile," explained the Italian barton as he stalked out, refusing to sit at the table with Wolde Mariam, whose country—Ethiopia—he said, no longer exists.

Resistance by the league, said the British, means:

1. The league does not recognize Italy's claim to soverignty over Ethiopia.
2. The league does recognize the continued existence of Emperor Haile Selassie's Ethiopian

Keys Quadruplets of Texas Visit Dionnes

Callander, Ont., May 11 (AP)—The Keys quadruplets from Waco, Texas, presented the Dionne quintuplets of Callander, Ont., today with four-year scholarships at Baylor university, which they attend.

The pretty Oklahoma girls, on an interternational visit to the quintuplets in the interests of the Texas centennial, said Baylor authorities were arranging that the quintuplets have the same rooms the quadruplets occupy should they decide to accept the scholarships — some 15 years hence.

Marie Dionne had a black eye and it rained today, but neither fact spoiled the visit of the Keys to the Dionnes.

The black eye was the result of a disagreement the smallest of the quints had with a door a few days ago. It cleared up so well today the Key sisters thought Marie just as beautiful as her four sisters.

The rain had no effect on the enthusiasm of the 2-year-old quads for quintuplets and northern Ontario scenery. They spent the morning watching the youngsters at play and the afternoon fishing at Lake Champlain near here. They got two fish, but no one could figure just whose they were. It seemed there was a bit of snarling in the lines and all four quads claimed a trout.

Leota, Mona, Mary and Roberta Keys brought the quints dolls, poke bonnets, dresses of the same shade of blue as the blue bonnet, Texas state flower, somberos and serapes — Mexican blankets from Antonio.

They watched the quints through a plate glass for an hour and saw them dance and throw kisses back.

The quads had their pictures taken with Dr. Allan Roy DaFoe and Pat M. Neff, president of Baylor university.

They dressed Dr. DaFoe in a sombero and serape for one picture. After he had recovered from the shock the doctor said the four sisters were "wholesome, unaffected" young ladies.

The quads, who were born in Hollis, Okla., June 4, 1915, said they thought the quints "darling," "lovely," and "just gorgeous."

The Keys sisters leave tonight for Ontario where they will be the guests of the Ontario government tomorrow.

WORK RELIEF ALLOTMENT IS UP TO SENATE

HUGE BILL PASSES HOUSE BY VOTE OF 341-38

BY RICHARD RENDELL

Washington, May 11. (AP)—The $2,364,229,712 deficiency bill, carrying $1,425,000,000 for relief, rode through the house on a 341 to 38 vote today and went to the senate where leaders forecast a quick trip to the White House.

A potential obstacle appeared, however, as friends of Senator Hayden (D-Ariz.) said he would renew the fight started in the house to obtain $700,000,000 for the Public Works administration.

Administration leaders successfully defeated efforts of a house bloc headed by Representative Beiter (D-N. Y.) to earmark part of the relief fund for the PWA. Hayden seeks to obtain $700,000,000 in addition to the money voted for relief.

$39,900,000 for TVA

Chairman Glass (D-Va.) of the senate appropriations committee told reporters he believed the deficiency measure would be passed by the senate before the controverted tax bill received approval. Relief and revenue legislation are the only so-called 'must' measures to be passed before adjournment which leaders hope will come in the first week of June.

The house shouted its approval of the deficiency bill after a motion by Representative Taber (R-N. Y.) to recommit the measure with instructions to the appropriations committee to substitute a system of state grants for WPA handling of the relief fund had been defeated 286 to 90.

Other items included in the bill besides the relief fund are $458,621,860 for the social security program and $39,900,000 for the Tennessee Valley authority.

Graf Zepp Leaves Its New Home Port

Frankfort-on-the-Main, May 11 (AP)—The Graf Zeppelin left its new home port here tonight for the first time on a regular trip to South America.

With the damage suffered in an accident at Rio De Janeiro now repaired, the Graf took off from its new hangar which is claimed to be the largest in the world. Twenty passengers were aboard.

Jewelers Report Better Business

Lansing, May 11 (AP)—Some 250 proprietors of jewelry stores in Michigan, gathered for the state convention of the Michigan Jewelers association, told today of better business and bigger profits.

A dozen visitors, picked at random, reported business 10 per cent or more ahead of that last spring, with hopes for an increase.

ARRESTED

Thomas Robinson, who recently acquired the title of Public Enemy No. 1 as the result of the capture of William Mahan, Karpis and Campbell, was seized by federal agents in Glendale, Calif., last night. He was sought for the kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll of Louisville, Ky.

TWO ARRESTED IN ARSON CASE

Chester Burnham, 21, of Bark River Admits Setting Fire

Two Bark River residents were arrested on charges of arson yesterday by Sheriff William E. Miron, bringing to a denouement a crime which has been investigated for more than two years. One of the arrested men, Chester Burnham, 21, confessed to the crime and involved the second man, William Swanson, 38.

On the evening of October 31, 1933, a large barn, containing 47 head of registered cattle, 7 head of horses, a large supply of hay, owned by Rudolph N. Dahlberg, Bark River, was destroyed by fire which also destroyed two large grain-filled silos adjoining the barn. The circumstances surrounding the fire were such that arson was suspected but the sheriff's department, fire marshal and private detective agencies were unable to get a clue to the suspected crime during their early investigations.

Signs Confession

The sheriff's department, however, continued to work on the case during the past two and a half years and eventually uncovered clues which they vigorously pursued. Yesterday Sheriff Miron and Undersheriff Frederickson went to Bark River and arrested Burnham, charging him with the setting of the fire.

Burnham at first denied any part in the crime but when confronted with the evidence admitted that he had set the fire and accused Swanson of instigating the plot. Swanson is a brother-in-law of Dahlberg, whose barn and property were destroyed.

At the sheriff's office, Burnham signed a complete confession of the crime, was arraigned on the charge in justice court, waived examination and was bound over to circuit court.

Swanson later was arrested by Sheriff Miron and taken to Escanaba but he did not admit complicity in the case.

Burnham told the sheriff, "Yes, I did set the fire. Swanson told me on October 31, 'Tonight's the night. It's Hallowe'en and there'll be lots of pranks.' So I went to the barn. I lit a match but it went out before the hay caught fire. Then I lit a second match and that one did the work. Then I ran away before anyone could see me."

The motive for the crime has not definitely been established. Swanson told the sheriff that relations between him and Dahlberg have been unfriendly.

Youths Sought For Attempted Assault

Mt. Clemens, Mich., May 11 (AP)—MaComb county sheriff's deputies searched tonight for two youths accused by Wanda Buraskinsi, 19, Detroit, of attempting to attack her on an infrequently used road. She said the men beat her when she resisted, but that she escaped. She suffered a jaw fracture. "John Doe" warrants were issued for the men.

G-MEN SEIZE KIDNAPER OF ALICE STOLL

RANSOM MONEY IS FOUND IN HIS POCKETS

Washington, May 11 (AP)—Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., last big quarry of federal agents, was arrested tonight at Glendale, Calif., for the alleged kidnaping of a Louisville, Ky., society woman.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the bureau of investigation, announced to reporters that Robinson had been captured after a two year hunt for the man charged with the kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll.

Hoover said Robinson was armed when captured, but that, as in the recent arrests of others as public enemies he had been taken so quickly that his gun was not used.

Last of "Big Game"

With Robinsons capture, the federal agents wiped clean their major "wanted" list. In a week and a half, the last of the more notorious kidnap suspects have been captured. They are:

Alvin Karpis, wanted for the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, and Wiliam A. Hamm, Jr., both of St. Paul, Minn., and the $46,000 mail train robbery at Garrettsville, Ohio.

Harry Campbell, limping pal of Karpis, wanted for the $200,000 Bremer kidnaping and the Garrettsville robbery.

William Mahan, alias Dainard, wanted for the $200,000 kidnaping of George Weyerhaeuser, 9-year-old son of a Tacoma, Wash., lumberman. Mahan pleaded guilty and was sentenced immediately to 60 years in McNeil, Island, Wash., penitentiary.

Disposition of the cases of Karpis and Campbell is pending

Mrs. Stoll was kidnaped on October 10, 1934.

Hoover said Robinson admitted his identity when captured at about 10:30 p. m. (E.S.T.) tonight and was immediately started for Louisville.

Robinson had on his person when arrested $4,560 of which $4,200 was kidnap ransom money, Hoover said.

No shots were fired in taking the kidnaper, Hoover said, although Robinson was carrying a .38 caliber pistol.

The kidnaping suspect, who is known to have masqueraded as a woman at times, had been living in Glendale, Calif., for the past two months under the name of "John Simons."

Robinson, known as a "lone wolf" criminal, had been hunted by "G-men" nearly two years since the $50,000 kidnaping of Mrs. Stoll, wife of Berry V. Stoll, Louisville, Ky., oil man, and niece of Frederic M. Sackett, former United States senator and former ambassador to Germany.

Death Threatened

Unlike gang kidnapers, Robinson had no underworld cronies or confidants. His practice of appearing in the disguise of a woman made the chase doubly hard. He had once been confined to an insane asylum.

The Robinson chase covered most of the United States, with reports of the appearance of Robinson or the "blond woman" disguise he used coming from many scattered cities.

The death penalty has been threatened against the 28-year-old kidnaper by the federal district attorney at Louisville.

Hoover said at one time that part of the ransom money "has turned up, from time to time."

Both Robinson's father, T. J. Robinson, and his wife, Mrs. T. H. Robinson, Jr., were investigated in the kidnap plot, but were acquitted in thefall of 1935.

The ransom note on which the $50,000 was paid was written on legal paper in legal phrases, and directed that ransom be paid to Robinson's father or his wife.

Posing as a telephone inspector, the kidnaper entered the Stoll home on Lime Kiln road on the outskirts of Louisville about 3 p. m. on October 10, 1934.

After pretending to check telephone connections he forced Mrs. Anne Woolett, a maid, to accompany him to the second floor where Mrs. Stoll was ill with a cold.

Mrs. Woolett was forced to tie the hands of Mrs. Stoll, and then the kidnaper tied the hands and feet of the maid. Learning of his kidnap plan, Mrs. Stoll offered a check, but was slugged on the head with a piece of pipe for an answer.

Bleeding from the wound, Mrs. Stoll was forced into a waiting car, after Robinson left a note in the kidnap room.

Stoll arriving home later, notified police and relatives.

The note he found stated that

SCHOOL PUPILS ENTERTAIN CLUB

Jefferson Sixth Grade Group Performs for Rotarians

A musical program, by the children of the sixth grade at the Jefferson school, provided members of the Escanaba Rotary club with entertainment that proved as interesting as it was unique. Presented under the direction of Ross Stokes, Jr., supervisor of elementary music in the Escanaba public schools and Miss Bernice Firkus, instructor in the room, the group of Jefferson school boys and girls, gave members of the Rotary club a most enjoyable half hour, at Belle's Coffee Shop, where the weekly luncheon of the club was held yesterday.

Highlights of the program, in addition to the group singing, were a vocal solo by Betty Jean Strohman, a sixth grade girl, who displayed both a most pleasing voice and a most attractive manner and two numbers by a boys octette who put both verve and action into their offerings. Joan Lindsay delightfully served as program announcer.

The program and the personnel follow:

John Brown Will Be Commencement Speaker June 5

Newberry, May 11.—John W. Brown, son of Mrs. Fanny Brown, and graduate of the Newberry high school, class of 1921, will deliver the commencement address here on June 5. This selection of the speaker is in keeping with the policy of the local schools in inviting former graduates of this system to speak to the new group leaving each June. The plan, started three years ago, has proven popular. The unusual part of it is that the first three speakers are all members of the negative team of the debate group for 1921, James Henderson, an attorney at Sault Ste. Marie, Anthony Westin, prosecuting attorney at Benton Harbor and Mr. Brown making up the team for that year.

John W. Brown is now assistant market analyst for the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and is located at Detroit. He has been with them for the past year, being associated with the General Motors and with Sone and Webster Engineering company as a civil engineer. Mr. Brown received his A.B. from the Northern State Teachers' college in 1926, his B.S.E. in 1929 and his M.B.A. in 1934, the last two degrees being earned at the University of Michigan. Mr. Brown is sure to have something of interest to say to the students and to the community.

CHARLES SHUCRAFT

Charles Shucraft died on Saturday following a long illness. For many years Mr. Shucraft was a saw filer, working for the Newberry Lumber and Chemical company and other concerns throughout this part of the peninsula.

MISS WESTIN SERIOUSLY ILL

Word was received from Ann Arbor that Miss Marie Westin is seriously ill in the University hospital of an infection which has gotten into the blood stream. Several transfusions have been done. Her mother, Mrs. Andrew Westin, is remaining with her. Miss Westin is a teacher in the junior-senior school. She was removed to the hospital last week.

EARLY SWIMMING SEASON

The boys went swimming at the High Banks on Saturday. This is believed to be a record for early dips in this locality as generally school is out before the Tahquamenon water is warm enough for even the bravest. But the warm sun of the past week has so warmed up the water that several took advantage on Saturday and report the water fine. To be sure there is still some snow in the woods and the Tahquamenon is still bank high and supplied to a considerable extent from cold springs, but what is that to young men of ten and twelve and fourteen when a record for early dips is to be made. Many of the mothers got a shock when the news was learned, and many more were carefully protected from the shock.

MISS YOUNGQUEST ILL

Miss Nea Youngquest of this city, who went to Grant's Pass, Oregon, several weeks ago, is reported ill. She will be treated in a western sanitorium for several months, according to word received here by her sister, Mrs. Lawrence Redmond. Miss Youngquest is a former nurse at the Perry-Spinks hospital.

JOHN HEDBERG

John Hedberg, for many years a resident of Newberry, will be buried here, his body being expected to reach here from Hibbing, Minn., today or tomorrow. He died on Friday. Mr. Hedberg still owned Newberry property at the time of his death.

INDIAN JAILED FOR ASSAULT

Simon Secator Charged With Hitting Man With Axe

Simon Sacator, 63, Nahma Indian, was arrested yesterday by Sheriff William Miron on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to do great bodily harm less than the crime of murder after he allegedly had struck Joe Shedowin, another Nahma Indian, in the left side of the neck with a double bitted axe.

Shedowin was sitting in a chair at Sacator's house, the sheriff said, and Sacator left the house, returning in a few minutes with an axe in his hand. When he had passed Shedowin, he turned about and struck him in the neck with the axe, it is alleged. The axe, however, was not sharp but cut a large gash in Shedowin's neck. He was treated at a doctor's office in Nahma but his condition is not serious. There was no argument before the alleged attack, the sheriff said.

Sacator was arraigned on the charge and was bound over to circuit court when he waived examination.

Mary Sacator, 48, wife of Simon, and Frank Sacator, 28, son, were arrested on charges of drunk and disorderly and were given ten days in the county jail.

G-MEN SEIZE KIDNAPEER OF ALICE STOLL

attempts to arrest the kidnaper would result in the victim's death.

The ransom money was to be shipped by express—to Robinson's father.

Four days later, a new note came, substituting Mrs. Robinson as intermediary. A telephone call from the kidnaper followed, and later came letters in Mrs. Stoll's handwriting.

On October 15, the ransom was paid to Mrs. Robinson and she took a train for Indianapolis where justice agents said Mrs. Stoll was kept prisoner in an apartment.

Later, Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Stoll appeared at Terre Haute, Ind., and were driven to Louisville by a relative. Federal agents met the group on the road and took custody of Mrs. Stoll, arresting Mrs. Robinson.

Federal bureau of investigation records show Robinson's first venture into crime was a $14,000 jewel robbery, effected under the guise of an officer. Charged with impersonating an officer, he was committed to an insane asylum instead of a jail, and the charge later dismissed.

Another jewel theft was charged to Robinson on April 22, 1934.

Tennessee records show Robinson once was committed to the Western State insane institution at Bolivar.

THAT'S GREAT

Louisville, Ky., May 11 (AP)—Informed of the capture tonight in California of Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, Berry Stoll, her husband, declared "that's fine. That's great."

He declined further comment. He added Mrs. Stoll had nothing to say.

Stoll is a Louisville oil company executive and prominent in civic affairs.

REFUSES COMMENT

Nashville, Tenn., May 11 (AP)—Thomas H. Robinson, Sr., retired engineer and now an employe of the state palnning commission, refused to comment tonight when advised that his kidnaper-son had been caught in California.

After asking where his son was captured and if he was safe, the elder Robinson said:

"No, I have nothing to say."

Last week when Alvin Karpis and William Mahan were caught he said he had not heard from his son since the youth disappeared from Indianapolis shortly after the Stoll abduction.

"I'm still hopeful that he is living," Mr. Robinson said, but added his son might be better off dead.

Mrs. Frances Althauser Robinson, wife of the kidnaper, could not be reached for comment.

A few days ago she said she was "trying to forget and doing a pretty good job of it most of the time," when asked if it made any difference to her that her husband was "public enemy No. 1."

She has filed suit for divorce.

They have a small son, Jimmy.

Both the elder Robinson and Mrs. Robinson, Jr., were indicted by the federal government on charges in connection with the kidnaping but were acquitted at their trial in Louisville last fall.

Mt. Clemens. (AP) — Officers found Ralph Kemp, 23 years old, fatally wounded lying near his automobile here Monday. Taken to a hospital, he told officers before he died that he fired a charge from a shotgun into his side because of despondency and recent financial reverses.

DEATH CLAIMS ARON PETERSON

Escanaba Resident Dies Suddenly at His Home

Aron Peterson, 73, passed away at his home, 607 South 13th street, at seven o'clock last evening. Although he had been in poor health for several years, his condition was not considered serious and his death was a distinct shock to his friends and relatives.

Mr. Peterson became sick shortly after eating his evening meal and his death followed suddenly.

The body was taken to the Anderson Funeral home to be prepared for burial and will remain there until the hour of services which will be two o'clock Thursday afternoon, Dr. C. A. Lund officiating. Burial will be in Lakeview cemetery.

Mr. Peterson was born March 18, 1863 in Smoland, Sweden. He came to Escanaba direct from Sweden 45 years ago and took employment as a boilermaker with the Chicago and North Western railway shops here. He retired 25 years ago because of an ailment.

He is survived by four daughters and two sons. They are Anna, Signe, Mildred, Escanaba; Mrs. Edith Girard, Chicago; and John G. Peterson and Fred E. Peterson, Escanaba. Two grandchildren also survive.

GOVERNOR HITS AT INJUSTICES

produced shirts with cheap labor in governmental "training schools" and was able to undersell it in the open market.

"Here we have an instance in which it is fair to say Michigan money was used to throttle a Michigan industry," Fitzgerald said. "Michigan contributed $55,000,000 more to the federal treasury in 1935 than was returned to her as her share of federal allowances. Michigan is not consulted as to where nor how those millions shall be spent. She is obliged to stand helplessly while those dollars, in some instances, actually are used to throw her own people out of work."

Fitzgerald praised the automobile industry for having gone "ahead without government subsidy or magic formuiae," and asserted the national government must accept the theory that thrift, work and courage will produce prosperity before recovery can become complete.

Injured Youth Is Still Unconscious

St. Johns, Mich., May 11. (AP)—Hospital attendants watched closely today for a return to consciousness by Forest Sparks, 17, who was injured seriously in an automobile accident that killed four companions last Friday.

Physicians waited for the boy to become stronger before making X-ray pictures to determine whether he has a fractured skull and internal injuries. Both of his legs are fractured in several places.

An inquest has been called for Thursday into the accident that cost the lives of Charles Jason, Wayne Wilson, Wilson Bell and Carroll North. All of the boys were Carson City high school students.

Norway realized $32,000,000 from her customs service for the twelve months ending last March.

Nahma Taxpayers Vote On Bond Issue

Nahma, May 11—Taxpayers of Nahma township voted, 34 to 21, today to bond the township for $6,000 to construct a new consolidated school building at Nahma. Bonds of $1,000 each will be issued to expire on July 1 each year for six years, starting in 1938. Interest will be at 6%.

Definite plans for the new building have not yet been made but the Aspens, Pine de Noc, and St. Jacques schools will be closed and children now attending those schools transported by bus to Nahma to attend the new consolidated schools.

government.

No Ethiopian State

Through Aloisi, Il Duce demanded the outright removal of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute from the council's agenda on the grounds "there is no Ethiopian state. The only sovereignty is Italian."

But with quiet stubborness the council voted to keep the Ethiopian problem on the agenda.

After Aloisi stalked down the stairs out of the council's private meeting, he turned about and walked up again into a public session, where he read a report on the election of members to the court of international justice.

An Italian spokesman said the walkout of the Italian delegation did not mean Italy was leaving the league.

The immediate effect of Mussolini's preemptory demand that the league take its hand off the Ethiopian question, coming after the outright annexation of the country, appeared to be a stiffening of determination among those states advocating the maintenance of sanctions. Certainly, no definite move was made in the direction of lifting sanctions.

Several council members said the logical next move would be to condemn Italy's action and then adjourn until June, when a new leftist French government will have been formed.

One league official went so far as to say:

"Mussolini today saved the league."

He meant that Il Duce's whip-cracking attitude practically forced statesmen to rally to the league's support.

When the crucial council session began Aloisi, in a prepared speech, declared:

"Al discussion of the Italo-Ethiopian difference is futile."

Convicted Of Theft Of 3 Human Heads

Detroit, May 11. (AP)—Recorder's Judge Thomas M. Cotter convicted Frank Murray, 24, today of the theft, among other things, of three human heads. Sentence was deferred until next Monday.

The heads, medical exhibits, were in a suitcase stolen from the automobile of Dr. Edgar Poos, Philadelphia, who had intended to use them in a lecture before the Wayne County Medical Society. A horrified woman found the gruesome exhibits in the back yard at her home. Other articles in the suitcase were pawned.

Mrs. Abbott Might Be Postmistress

Lansing, May 11 (AP)—Democratic leaders sought today to obtain for Mrs. Horatio J. Abbott, widow of the Democratic national committeeman, an appointment as postmistress of Ann Arbor.

Don W. Canfield, executive secretary of the state central committee, returned from a conference with Postmaster General James A. Farley, and said Farley appeared to favor such an action.

Canfield said the incumbent Ann Arbor postmaster's appointment has expired, but no immediate action to replace him is anticipated.

Ann Arbor. (AP)—Miss Hilda Sharpe, 16, of Howell, died in a hospital here Monday of injuries received Sunday when an automobile in which she was riding with three companions crashed into an embankment at Fowlerville. The other occupants were injured.

Gas Well Ignited, Two Men Injured

Mt. Pleasant, Mich., May 11 (AP)—A gas well in the Hinton-Millbrook-Belvidere field caught fire as it came in late today. Two men were seriously burned.

Herbert Knox, 35, a tool puncher for Taggart brothers, who drilled the well, was taken to a Big Rapids hospital, his condition critical.

Warren Gosney, of Mt. Pleasant, a bystander, was brought to a hospital here, aparently less seriously burned.

The well, flowing at an estimated rate of three to five million cubic feet, was ignited by the studding engine. The fire destroyed equipment valued at $12,000 to $15,000, and defied early efforts to extinguished it with steam.

The Moose Experiment

FORTY-NINE moose have been trapped on Isle Royale during the past winter and will be transported in the near future to the Upper Peninsula mainland, where it is hoped that their numbers will increase to the extent that some day hunting of the large animals will be permitted here as in Canada.

The moose will be released in the Cusino game refuge, Escanaba River tract, Keweenaw peninsula and other areas, where conditions are considered ideal.

The Michigan Conservation Department has braved a lot of criticism in carrying out its moose experiment. Moose were dying on Isle Royale because of a scarcity of food as was shown by much evidence of overbrowsing. Killing off a portion of the herd was one solution. Feeding of the moose on the island would have been too costly, and so it was decided to transport some of them to the mainland.

Eleven moose were removed from the island the previous winter and this year's capture will bring the number up to 60. The experiment has been give much publicity in the newspapers and outdoor magazines of the country. No doubt, the publicity alone will compensate the state of Michigan for the expenditure that has been made for the experiment. It was a type of advertising which had more appeal than that for which thousands of dollars have been spent by the state in the past.

There is the possibility, too, that the Upper Peninsula someday will have a large moose herd, something that Canada uses as the basis of an advertising program that attracts hundreds of thousands of sportsmen annually. The moost experiment may or may not prove successful, but it is a chance that was worth taking. After all, when everything is taken into consideration, it was not such an extravagant venture.

A New Campaign

WITH the distribution of a pamphlet, entitled "Factual survey of Michigan state highway situation with summary and conclusions," the Automobile Club of Michigan apparently has instituted a new campaign to benefit its members, who are principally residents of Detroit and other cities in Lower Michigan.

The Automobile Club of Michigan, in its pamphlet, mentions that since 1917 Detroit has contributed to the state in gas and weight taxes about $155,000,000, while during this period Detroit has received from the state for trunk line improvements and maintenance slightly over $8,500,000, and from Wayne county, out of its share of gas and weight taxes, improvements valued at a little under $12,000,000.

The club expresses the belief that the seriousness of the traffic problems confronting the urban centers, together with "the dangerous inadequacy of trunk line highway extensions through them, entitles those centers to a larger share of the improvements that are created out of motor tax revenues."

Under the provisions of the Horton Act, the cities of Michigan are alloted about 31 per cent of weight tax revenues. Efforts to get a large share of the state money for city streets can be viewed only as a threat to the continuation of the highway building program, which has been well started in the northern part of Michigan. To curtail this program now would seriously hinder the efforts that are being made to promote the tourist business in this region.

While eventually a larger proportion of weight and gas tax collections will be rebated back to the larger taxpaying communities, it would seem that it is no more than just that the Upper Peninsula, which has patiently waited while good roads were being built in Lower Michigan, should first see the completion of its main trunk lines.

Capitalizing the Indians

MUCH has been written about the exploitation of the Indians in the past, and now efforts are being directed by the federal government and other agencies toward assisting the Red Men in becoming more self-sustaining.

The Upper Peninsula has been widely advertised as Hiawathaland, but as yet we have done little to capitalize this region's unique Indian background. Bands of Indians are to be found in various parts of the Upper Peninsula. All of them are still adept at their ancient handicraft art, such as basket weaving and canoe making. Over at L'Anse the Ojibway tribe still puts on its historic pageants and ceremonials.

When we advertise the Upper Peninsula as Hiawathaland, tourists naturally come up here expecting to find Indians. Pageants and Indian handicraft displays, such as are presented by the tribes of New Mexico, Arizona and other parts of the Southwest, could be offered in the Upper Peninsula, with beneficial results for our Indians and Hiawathaland.

Good Fair Assured

ASSURANCE has been given by Governor Fitzgerald and Commissioner Thomson that ample funds would be made available for the successful staging of the 1936 Upper Peninsula State Fair.

The state fair has done much during the past several years to promote interest among Upper Peninsula farmers in raising better livestock and improving farming methods. The benefits of the institution are demonstrated clearly in the growth of the 4-H boys and girls club movement. The achievement contests and exhibits in the 4-H department have offered real incentives to the youth of the peninsula—our future farmers.

As an educational institution, the Upper Peninsula State Fair has provided widespread benefits. The results obtained justify the expenditure of state funds for its continuation. It must be viewed as part of Michigan's educational system in the same light as the Northern State Teachers College, Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Michigan State College, industrial training schools and other institutions of this nature.

The Berry Problem

A GROUP of Delta county farmers, assembled in a meeting at Brampton last evening, again discussed the bothersome problem of profitable marketing of strawberries.

Farmers at Brampton and Soo Hill grow the finest strawberries that can be found anywhere. The berries are large and juicy and are produced in quantities. But after devoting much time and hard labor to the growing, picking and marketing of the berries, the farmers find they have little at the end of the season to show for their time and labor. Prices have been ruinously low at the time of the year when Delta county farmers are marketing their berries.

Cooperative marketing has proved to be profitable for berry growers in the Bayfield, Wis., region, and Delta county farmers are hopeful that a similar plan can be worked out here. Farmers who grow such nice berries as those produced in Delta county certainly are entitled to realize something out of their efforts.

Can Control Himself

WE GET accustomed, in an automatic age, to thinking that everything can be controlled automatically, by law or by mechanics. Somehow we get the idea that a law, or a mechanical restriction, will protect us from ourselves.

But it is in ourselves that the final resource always lies.

A year ago, horrified by the mounting toll of fthe streets, more terrible in many ways than war, a great cry went up: "Put mechanical governors on cars to limit their speed! Pass stricter traffic laws!"

But at the same time, newspapers, magazines and radio throughout the country applied themselves to the more fundamental side that of showing people what was going on telling them of the traffic toll, urging them to be careful for their own sake.

Up to now, automobile deaths have been 9 per cent fewer this year than they were during the same period of last year.

That is a splendid, worthwhile showing. It is probably greater than would have been registered by any new set of laws, any set of mechanical restrictions.

How Germany Trades

AT A time when the United States is seeking to augment its trade with Latin America, it is significant to observe the success of Nazi Germany in the same field.

The German system is unique in that it is based on "compensation marks." These are German marks discounted for foreign trade by as much as 40 per cent. The effect is that a purchaser in Brazil, for instance, gets his material at a bargain.

Germany has flooded Brazil with her compensation marks and, since these marks are good only for purchases in Germany, the pressure in Brazil to dispose of them has reciprocally increased the Nazi trade from 12 per cent in 1934 to 18 per cent for 1935. As a result, Germany's Brazilian trade will come close this year to equaling that of the United States, which approximates 23 per cent of Brazil's total exports.

Whether Germany is gaining anything by this unusual means of expanding her foreign trade is something that only the future will reveal.

ONE MORE RULING
(Iron Mountain News)

THE ruling of the chairman of the state liquor control commission that no licenses will be granted in the case of applications received after May 1 is justifiably criticized by Commissioner V. F. Gormely. He believes, in fact, that the pressure from license seekers will be so great that Mr. McDonald will change his mind.

Beyond the restrictions already in force, there should be no arbitrary regulations denying all new applicants the right to do business. Hard liquor licenses are already limited according to population, but there has been no curb on the number of beer permits. While there is considerable opinion that there are too many beer outlets and many of them are merely fronts for liquor bootlegging, if there is to be any change the set-up as a whole should be revised. All operators, or would-be operators, should be treated alike. As for Mr. McDonald's belief that there are too many in the business, the situation is largely correcting itself, for license applications have fallen off by several thousand. The profits have not been as great as expected.

The liquor commission has established something of a record in adopting looney regulations and i nmore than one instance revising or repealing them. Its closing order is in point. In one part of the state it is legal to whoop it up until a later hour than in another. Taverns are outfitted, receive an inspection okeh and then alterations are required. The governor fights with the chairman and the chairman fights with the licensees and the public. It's a peculiar situation that necessitates a fine mind to analyze. And if this latest edict sticks it will be still more peculiar.

Your Nation's Affairs

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—There is no reason to suppose that the rapid progress of the Republican presidential nomination toward Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas has been seriously impeded by the result of the California primaries.

Hoover

Consensus in Washington indicates a widespread belief that Landon's unexpected primary victory in South Dakota —a blow to Senator Borah — approximately offsets the damage done when a Landon slate of delegates promoted by Hearst and Governor Merriam of California was defeated by an uninstructed slate supported by Herbert Hoover.

Landon leaders appear to be perfectly sincere when they express relief in the feeling that the effect is to remove much of the Hearst influence from the governor's campaign.

One of them, pointing out that there are pro-Landon men on the uninstructed California slate, says the defeat of the Landon ticket "merely meant that California Republicans dislike Hearst more than they dislike Hoover."

—LESS WORRY OVER HEARST—

As previously reported in these dispatches, many Landonites had been worrying about adverse reactions to the tie-up with Hearst which had cropped up following Landon's consent to entry of the Hearst-Merriam ticket.

The extent of this feeling was indicated last month by an editorial in the Emporia Gazette from the pen of William Allen White, distinguished sage of Kansas and a prominent Landon supporter, who said that "Politically, Hearst has degenerated into a method of suicide."

That gives you an idea why some Landon supporters don't mind what happened in California. They knew the Democrats were all set to make Hearst an issue in the election campaign.

Now they're in a position to keep Hearst from being an infuence at the convention —as he would have been had the Landon slate won—and to claim that they are under no obligations to the publisher.

Borah's defeat by a narrow margin in South Dakota was more of a surprise than the uninstructed slate's big majority in California. Nearly all political prophets had awarded South Dakota's delegation to the Idaho senator in advance and the Landon managers made no strong effort there.

—"SCANDAL" RUMOR WEAK—

Only three possibilities now seem to offer a possible major threat to Landon and they don't loom large.

One is the persistent report that a sensational scandal will be exploded before convention time, damaging to his candidacy. Professional political observers more and more discount that possibility and the rumors concerning it.

The governor's record has been scanned rather thoroughly and nothing discreditable has been found therein. His advisers are smart enough to discourage the idea that they have permitted any monkey-business with respect to campaign funds.

The worst things Democratic strategists have found yet to "explode" against Landon in the campaign are commendatory statements made by the governor about various New Deal efforts.

—NOT SUCH A MENACE—

Second, the reactionary eastern G. O. P. leadership for the most part has held off from endorsing Landon and this is sometimes construed as a menace. The fact is that such important leaders as Charlie Hilles of New York know that any endorsement of theirs before the convention would merely provide fuel for Senator Borah.

Landon managers long ago became a little nervous about the extent to which eastern conservatives were declaring for their man. Reports that Hilles and other eastern bosses who usually follow his lead are secretly committed to Landon cannot be confirmed in Washington, but there is no particular reason to doubt them.

—BORAH AND HOOVER LEFT—

The other threat is that of Senator Borah, which most observers believe would materialize importantly only if Borah were to threaten to bolt the party in case of Landon's nomination.

It is generally believed that Borah will do no such thing and that Landon couldn't be stopped even if Borah did bolt.

That leaves Herbert Hoover, since his prestige came up a bit in the California primary.

But there will be no last-ditch fighting delegates for Mr. Hoover. The possibility of his nomination practically doesn't exist and the possibility that he will exert a controlling influence at the convention is almost as remote.

Landon is a 10 to 1 shot, barring important and unexpected breaks.

The Literary Guidepost

"ANNALS OF ENGLISH LITERATURE, 1475-1925," by J. C. Ghosh and E. G. Withycombe (Oxford); "CHRONOLOGY OF BOOKS & PRINTING (300 B. C.-A. D. 1935)," by David Greenhood and Helen Gentry (Macmillan).

TWO compilations, each useful in itself, are now to be had. It also happens that the two complement each other, and the usefulness of the one is much increased by its mate.

JOHN SELBY

First there is "Annals of English Literature, 1475 - 1925," which has been assembled by J. C. Ghosh and E. G. Withycombe from heaven knows what diverse sources. This gives at once the literary output for any years within its scope. Marginal notes give in addition related world facts of importance —President Wilson died, a certain well known press was established, a given edition of an encyclopedia was published, "Aunt Judy's Magazine" was started.

The index is extremely full—it is said to be the work of Miss Withycombe. At a glance one may take from it the literary output of any author, with the dates of publication, the skeleton of the writer's biography emerges, with fascinating suggestions for side study as well. Just how valuable such a compilation might be to a writer anxious to know what novel his heroine would be reading in 1889 can easily be imagined. (It might very well be Stevenson's "Black Arrow," which was just published, incidentally.)

The related work is "Chronology of Books & Printing (300 B. C.—A. D. 1935)," and for this David Greenhood and Helen Gentry are responsible. The great calligraphers, illustrators, type designers, printers, binders, patrons are all duly entered, as well as the necessary information about many great libraries, many of the early manuscrips, and the inventions which influenced printing and book production. It happens that in addition to being practical in the best sense, the book is also a good example of fine printing.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE WEALTH I POSSESS

I've figured my blessings, I've counted my cares,
I've balanced the book of my daily affairs,
A column for credits, a column for debt,
A place for unkindness I cannot forget,
And yet there were pleasures along with the pain
And seldom a loss but had some little gain.
I find I have more than I ever have known,
Astonished to note all the wealth that I own.

I've figured my blessings but little, I fear;
My cares I have counted each day and each year.
Forgotten the pleasure, the pain I have kept
Forever in mind, ev'ry moment I wept.
The loss I remember, the sorrow recall,
The happiness hardly remember at all,
But now I have taken a balance at last,
The joys and the griefs of the present and past.

I've figured my blessings, I've set them apart
In a book I am keeping, the book of my heart.
I need not set down all the trouble and care,
I find I already had written it there.
But I had forgotten the love that is mine—
It took a whole column, the hate but a line.
The joy always greater, the grief always less,
I'm really astonished the wealth I possess.

New York Column

BY JACK STINNETT

NEW YORK—Howard Ketcham, himself is a towering, broad-shouldered symphony in dark blue with just the correct touch of enlivening red and green in the stripes in his tie.

JACK STINNETT

The walls of his office are a pale soft green . . . "Restful, but not provoking drowsiness," he explains.

He uses the conventiona' white stationery but his letters are typed in green from a ribbon especially prepared for him. The ink of his signatures matches. Green on white, he says, is much more legible, less irritating to the eyes and nerves than black or blue on white. Besides, it is distinctive.

Ketcham is a "color engineer." He also is an expert on light . . . if one is going to do anything with color, one must be an expert on light.

THERE was that brick maroon for automobiles, for instance. The dealers turned thumbs down on the color. "Too brickish," they said. So the manufacturers took the brickishness out of it, made up several demonstration cars in the color, and presented them at the automobile shows. The dealers still said "too brickish." Ketcham straightened the situation out immediately. The "brick" in the new maroon came from the electric lights in the showrooms.

Ketcham thinks it will not be long until all schools are using yellow "blackboards" with black chalk; all artificial lighting will be "color corrected" lighting, which is like daylight; and various denominations of the national currency will be printed in different colors.

Ketcham's job is to determine, in advance, what color a manufacturer should use in presenting an article for sale. From Oshkosh to Miami, from Long Beach to Atlantic City, his color scouts are constantly on the go, making surveys of the "purchasing public's" choice of color.

HE knows that black automobiles are preferred in New York and tan ones in California. He recently determined that red was the best color for presentation of a package of beverage similar to coffee. He credits the change in color for a 50 per cent increase in sales of a fountain pen.

Making a survey for a manufacturer of toilet sets, Ketcham insisted that milady's vanity should be graced with lilac and coral. The manufacturer balked. In 50 years, the company had never used lilac or coral. He weakened. Now the best seller lists of the manufacturer are topped by lilac and coral.

Individual color tastes do not interest Ketcham. It's mass reaction that counts. His favorite story is about the factory which had two cafeterias, one for men and one for women. The women complained constantly that their cafeteria was cold, despite the fact that the temperature was constant at the level of comfort.

No radical has ever been made in the United States by radical propaganda. The people who make radicals here are those who refuse to recognize the reality of change.

News Behind The News

BY PAUL MALLON

Washington, May 11.—Mr. Hopkins' WPA crowd did an effective undercover job on congress for their relief bill.

The Hopkins boys worked, apparently, upon the theory that fear is a major emotion in a congressman's make-up. They slyly injected a few terrorizing inspirations where these would do the most good, mostly back in the local congressional districts from which congressmen emanate.

Paul Mallon

Example: A good Democratic congressman from an eastern state was leading the fight to snatch some of Mr. Hopkins' money for Mr. Ickes. Hi senthusiasm was high until he picked up the newspaper from back home one day and read that the local WPA director had said he was "against relief."

—HEADLINE VOTERS—

People never fully understand issues. The general run of busy citizens read headlines and little else. Undoubtedly this congressman's local citizens have read that he is contesting against the relief bill on some ground or other, which is not clear to them. They probably think the local WPA director was right.

At least the congressman will have a lot of explaining to do to his people to set them right. And when a candidate for office begins explaining, he is lost.

—WHIP-SAWED—

The same thought has occurred to a lot of other congressmen whose local WPA directors may or may not have planted the idea that resistance to this particular relief bill is "opposition to relief."

Even on the Republican side, old-timers have been advising youngsters of the danger of voting against the Hopkins form, the Ickes form or any other form. They well know from experience that it is hard to get the public to differentiate between forms. The big thing is whether or not they voted for the form which was adopted. That is what will stick in the public mind. It becomes a very important factor when you consider that no candidate for public office these days can afford to be classed as against relief, be he Democrat, Republican or Zioncheck.

—ECONOMY—

A franker statement of the spending outlook than any which has been published was given secretly to the house Democratic caucus by Chairman Buchanan of the house appropriations committee. He knows the prospects if anyone does.

According to his tabulation, congress will have appropriated about $10,500,000,000 by the end of the session, if everything goes along as expected. This includes bonus, relief, etc., but not Frazier-Lemke and things expected to be defeated.

The $10,500,000,000 figure is just about what the last congress appropriated, indicating that President Roosevelt's progress toward curtailment is exactly nil to date.

What he has been able to save on sundries has been lost on the bonus (another form of spending.)

—DIPLOMACY—

What Messrs. Roosevelt and Hull think of the Italian victory in Ethiopia will never be put into words. But Mussolini knows.

A sarcastic reminder was offered to him when it became apparent that the Italians were hanging around outside Addis Ababa until the Americans, British and French had their fill of savages on the rampage. The U. S. charge in Rome called at the Italian foreign office and inquired when Italy intended to take measures "to meet its responsibility" with regard to establishing law and order in Addis Ababa.

The inquiry had an effect. Mussolini sent his men into Addis Ababa a day ahead of original schedule.

—TREATIES—

Few are aware of it, but the U. S. is party to two international treaties making non-recognition of territories acquired by force—a definite commitment. Ironically, Italy also is a party to one of these treaties, the Argentine anti-war pact, signed in October, 1933, and adhered to by Italy in March, 1934.

This will direct our decision not to recognize Ethiopia, but apparently it will have no more influence on Mussolini than the international agreement not to use poison gas.

—PRESTIGE—

The Frazier-Lemke bill would go whooping through the house by a 2 to 1 vote today, were it not for one thing. House leaders feel that their personal prestige is involved. The fight made upon them by Father Coughlin stiffened their backs.

In ordinary course, the house would pass the bill and let the senate shoulder the responsibility for keeping it away from Mr. Roosevelt. In that way house members could get the prestige among farmers.

In any event, the bill will not become a law. If the house does not kill it, the senate will, and if the senate does not, the President will.

Italy and Japan, we understand, are waiving all claims on the Nobel peace prize this year.

Hard work, long hours and low pay is not the way to make a country permanently prosperous.

Smallest Federal Aid Received For Sault Ste. Marie

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C.—Sault Ste. Marie, with a $14,850 Public Works grant for hospital improvement, is receiving the least federal aid of any of the eight Michigan cities which have been listed for assistance by the administration, it was revealed here today.

The Sault Ste. Marie hospital, which has asked for money to construct an addition to its present building, will still be short $18,150 of the $33,000 total considered necessary to complete the project.

Like all other Michigan cities, with the exception of Battle Creek, Sault Ste. Marie is getting its money in the form of a grant. Battle Creek is listed for a $200,000 loan, but no grant.

Sault Ste. Marie is also marked up on Public Works books for 13 additional beds, the records released today show. Other hospitals in the state are receiving a total of 429 beds.

Records available here do not show how much of the total fund to be spent throughout the nation has already been turned over to the various hospitals. It is understood, however, that a large part of the money is still awaiting release to the cities where it is to be used.

Washington Island Pioneer's History Given By Relatives

Relatives of O. P. Olson referred as to as "Mormon" Olson in a story about Washington Island appearing in the Sunday issue of the Escanaba Daily Press, have furnished the Press with a corrected biography of his life.

He was born in Norway and was married there. The relatives said that Mormon missionaries, sent to Norway, induced him to come to America. He started off for Utah but stopped in Chicago and from there went to Washington Island 66 years ago.

Olson was in Chicago during the big fire and then went to Utah, but according to the relatives, when he arrived in the Mormon colony and observed the practice of polygamy, he resigned from membership in the church. The relatives explained that Olson married only once and denied that any of his children were Mormons.

Olson died in Ogden, Utah.

Campaign Opened To Remove Folks From Poorhouses

Dr. Philip A. Callahan, chief of Olde Age Assistance Bureau, announced this week in Lansing that the Old Age Assistance Bureau has opened a drive to "get as many old people out of the county poor houses as possible."

In announcing the receipt of the second federal check for $714,656.00 to supplement state funds for the next 3 months, Dr. Callahan invites all eligible poor house inmates to apply for old age assistance.

"We can only give assistance to those inmates who are over 70, are United States citizens and who have no physical ailment requiring hospital care", Dr. Callahan stated.

To date over 50 persons have been removed from the Eloise Infirmary, Wayne county, and are now living an independent life on the assistance received.

Since the Old Age Assistance Bureau was organized last July, there are nearly 24,000 people receiving their assistance check each month. The average check is $16.40.

Application blanks may be obtained from the County Welfare Agent of the county in which the applicant lives.

CLUB IS HOST TO COUNCILMEN

City Officials Attend Lions Meeting at Ford River

Members of the Escanaba city council, the city clerk, city manager and city engineer, were guests of the Escanaba Lions club at a chicken dinner held last night at the Peterson tea room, Ford River.

Recreational programs provided the main topic for discussion, and city officials pledged themselves to cooperate with the Lions club in their efforts to put Escanaba on the map with both winter and summer sports facilities.

A. D. LaBranche and A. J Goulais, who attended the Upper Peninsula winter sports conference at Ishpeming last Thursday, told of what had been accomplished in coordinating winter sports programs in the peninsula, and summarized what Escanaba has to offer and what it needs to promote successful winter sports contests.

City officials present at the meeting included: Mayor Carl B. Johnson, T. F. Kessler, city manager; Carl Anderson, city clerk; A. V. Aronson, city engineer; T. J. Rushton, assistant city attorney; Councilmen John Luecke, R. B. Stack, John Logan and Harold Gasman.

Mr. Luecke congratulated the Lions club on their initiative and aggressiveness in promoting ice skating, and declared that in his opinion the fair ground was the best prospect for a winter sports plant. He said that dredging on the Escanaba harbor yacht basin would start soon and urged members of the city club to request that the WPA speed up the project. The councilmen said that he was especially interested in a street paving program which took in 49 blocks in various parts of the city, and would also like to see a tree planting program carried out to beautify the city.

At the suggestion of Councilman R. B. Stack, a resolution was passed urging the establishment of a city-wide recreational program, and Attorney H. J. Yelland was named chairman of a movement to work for a harbor improvement and a progressive program to provide recreational and athletic facilities for Escanaba.

Others who talked at the meeting were:

Attorney Rushton, City Manager Kessler, City Engineer Aronson, Tom Desilets and Robert Dansard of the Lions club and Peter Logan of the city council.

A reminder was given of the district Lions club convention to be held at Menominee May 30 and 31, and President J. H. Shipman appointed A. J. Goulais and Hazen Hengesh as an "on-to-Menominee" committee to take charge of local arrangements for attending the convention.

The following resolution was adopted at the meeting:

Whereas, the residents of this community have been favored by one of the most complete records of this section of the Northern Peninsula through the tireless efforts of the Escanaba Daily Press and its employees, and whereas, the business men of this section of the Northern Peninsula have given full cooperation to the efforts of the Escanaba Daily Press in producing such a record, and whereas on the tenth day of May, 1936, a most complete record of the present and past history of this district was submitted to the subscribers of the Escanaba Daily Press and to the public at large, such record being a permanent monument to the immediate history of the City of Escanaba and the adjacent territory.

Therefore, Be it Resolved, that the Lions Club of the City of Escanaba go on record as commending the Escanaba Daily Press for the fine paper turned out on May 10th and commending the tireless efforts of the employees of the Escanaba Daily Press toward producing a record as complete and as satisfactory as was done, and commending the business men of the City of Escanaba and other communities for the splendid cooperation given to the Escanaba Daily Press as is evidenced by the complete advertising on the pages of the said pages.

And Be it Further Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Escanaba Daily Press, showing our appreciation for the marvelous accomplishment in producing such a complete up-to-date record.

Observance of Poppy Day Will Be Held May 23

Poppy Day will be observed in Escanaba this year on Saturday, May 23, when memorial poppies to be worn in honor of the World War dead will be distributed throughout the city by the Cloverland Post Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary. The Auxiliary women are making extensive preparations for the observance of the day under the leadership of Emerson Harvey, general chairman of the combined Poppy Day committees.

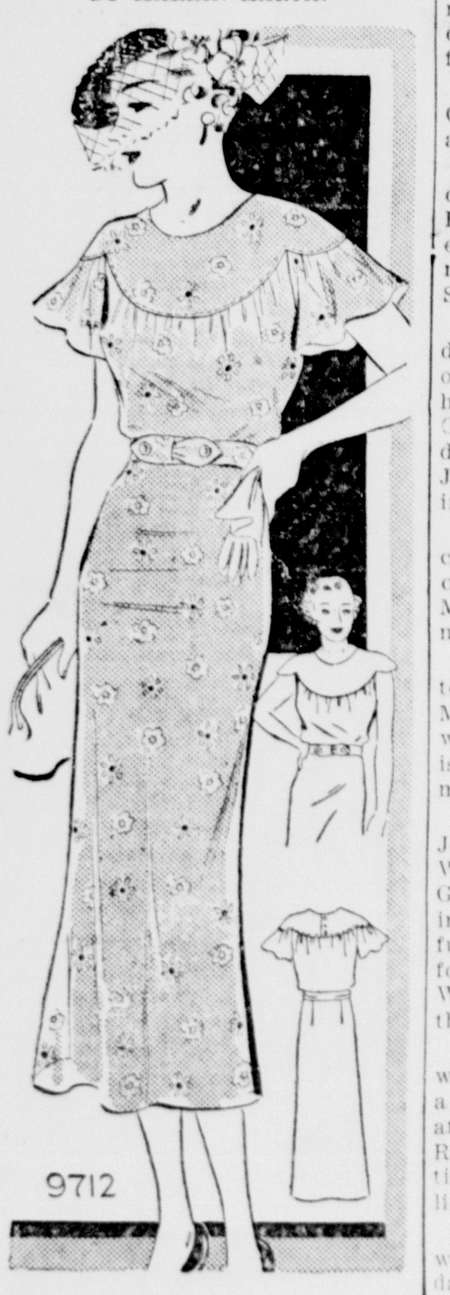
The poppies, made of crepe paper by disabled veterans, will be offered on the streets by volunteer workers from the Auxiliary Unit and cooperating organizations. "Poppy girls" will distribute the flowers in the business district throughout the day, and will also work in the outlying shopping centers. Contributions for the welfare of the disabled veterans and needy families of veterans will be asked in exchange for the flowers.

"Wearing the poppy is a personal tribute to the men who gave their lives in the country's service," Mr. Harvey said. "By having a poppy on the coat on Poppy Day, all can show that they still remember and honor the sacrifices made for America during the World War. The Poppy is the flower which bloomed on the battle fields where they fell and on Poppy Day it blooms again over the patriotic hearts where they are remembered.

"Wearing the poppy also gives the wearer a part in the vast work carried out by the American Legion and Auxiliary for the war's living victims; the disabled, their families and the families of the dead. Every penny contributed for a poppy goes to the support of this work, the bulk of the money being used here in Escanaba in the welfare activities of the local Legion Post and Auxiliary Unit.

One Pattern May Be Used For Two Frocks

BY MARIAN MARTIN



PATTERN 9712

If it's clothes you're thinking about (and who isn't?) you'll certainly want to make this fetching frock for your Summer wardrobe. The pattern is simple, easy to follow and a good deal of variety is allowed for both in fabric and style. An unusual round yoke slopes gently off the shoulder and, according to your whim, you may add the full, short sleeve, or omit it—equally attractive either way. The simple bodice is shirred to the yoke and the straight skirt is flared slightly. If you want a more "dressy" frock for afternoons, choose a dainty, flowered cotton chiffon or voile with full sleeves. A bright and more sporty effect may be achieved wihout the sleeves fashioned in pique, linen or other cotton. Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9712 can be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3½ yards 36 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

High School Current History Club

The last meeting of the High School Current History Club was held May 1 with Ruth Mortensen Chairman. She read a list of subjects for discussion from which was chosen "Should women hold public offices?" Interesting points brought out in the argument were:

By the boys—1. Women were easily frightened and could be scared into passing wrong bills.

2. Public officers were under great strain and women were not physically strong enough.

3. In cases where women were not familiar with the work, as in building, much graft would result and workmen would shirk.

4. Women bosses would tend to distract the men from their work.

The girls clung closely to their first, last and only straw, that records showed that women have more endurance and patience than men.

Addie Williams was committeeman of this meeting.

Theatres

AT THE DELFT

The "Perfect Triangle" has been found at last. It is made up of Clark Gable, the husband; Myrna Loy, the wife; and Jean Harlow, the "other woman.'

Apparently Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer spared no expense to bring these three great stars together to form the "perfect triangle' in its brilliant filmization of Faith Baldwin's best-seller novel, "Wife Versus Secretary," currently playing at the Delft theatre.

AT THE MICHIGAN

As a boisterous, roistering rogue—a charming villain who proved that he had the stuff of heroism for the people he loved—Wallace Berry plays his most fascinating role in "A Message to Garcia," 20th Century adventure romance now at the Michigan theatre.

Teamed with Barbara Stanwyck and John Boles in the leading roles of this picture based on one of the most audacious exploits in history, Beery tops the finest of his previous picture portrayals.

The program which will be a Poppy Playlet presented by the Girls' Service Club, Escanaba Junior high school, under the direction of Miss Lilian Perkins, will be followed by cards. Mrs. James Degnan is chairman of the hostess committee.

Pledges Needed to Assure City Concert Series

One hundred additional memberships in the National League of Community Concerts, over the number now pledged, are necessary if Escanaba is to have the privilege of the 1936-37 concert of the Music Department of the Escanaba public schools, sponsoring the series, and chairman of the special committee in charge of arrangements for it.

There has been an appreciative response thus far in pledges for the coming season, but undoubtedly there are many who wish memberships, who have not yet taken care of the matter, and it is urged that they do so within the next two weeks, as the membership quota must be completed by that time, and the contract closed.

The season, as is generally known, will present Alec Templeton, genius of the piano and the biggest attraction on the concert stage today, Gina Vanna, lovely soprano, and Edward Vito, harpist, and Remo Bolognini, South American violinist, and his brother, Ennio Bolognini, cellist, who is playing a return engagement.

Membership pledges may be made with any member of the committee, Mr. Bowers, Edward Edick, Roma Irons, B. B. Loveland, Florence Langley, Helen Snyder, Clarence Zerbel, Julia Parsons, Ross Stoakes, Lillian Perkins, Cecelia Pepin, Mrs. Josephine Campbell, Eleanor Chesarek, Anona Anderson, Mrs. Lora Riley, Dorothy Rose, Margaret Wilson, Eva Flemstrom, Helen Cayen, Elsie Nelson, Lucille Warmington, Vendela Sundquist, Helen Olson, Frank Karas.

Civil War Veterans Meeting With VFW

Battle Creek—Men who saw service in France, thousands strong, are to march behind cars carrying a few more than a score of veterans of Shiloh and Cemetery Ridge here on June 12 in a parade which will climax a joint state G. A. R.-V. F. W. encampment.

Time was when the Grand Army of the Republic boasted a membership of more than 20,000 in Michigan alone. The most recent check shows 186 members still living, representing 66 Michigan Posts.

The approaching 58th State Encampment, to be held in Battle Creek June 11, 12 and 13, will be one of the greatest in the history of the G.A.R. in Michigan. Greatest, because it may be the last. Only 25 Civil War veterans are expected to attend.

But thousands will attend the Sixteenth Annual Encampment of the Department of Michigan, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States. Its auxiliary and the auxiliary organizations of the G.A.R. also are planning prominent convention roles.

The V.F.W. encampment opens on June 10, a day earlier than that of the G.A.R. Both conventions close with election and installation of officers on Saturday, June 13.

Ritual team and drum and bugle corps competition on June 11 will be highlights of the V.F.W. encampment.

Because reservations already have overtaxed Battle Creek hotel accomodations, several hundred overseas veterans are to be quartered in squad tents along company streets at Camp Custer and will relive their mess-kit days.

In all, ten organizations wil' be represented here during the encampment. Included are the G. A. R., department of Michigan; Women's Relief Corps, auxiliary to the Michigan G. A. R.; Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, department of Michigan; V. F. W. auxiliary; Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War; Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic; National Daughters of the G. A. R.; Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War; auxiliary to the Sons of Union Veterans; and Military Order of the Cootie, fun organization of the V.F.W.

Three Students Address Kiwanis' Club At Meeting

Three public speakers of the Escanaba public schools furnished an interesting program at the regular meeting of Kiwanis club at the Sherman hotel Monday noon.

Shiu Fung, upper peninsula oratorical champion, delivered his oration, "A Plea for China", in which he described the progress the people of his native land have made in recent years. He also appealed to his hearers for a sympathetic understanding of the Chinese people's problems, pointing out that much written about China tends to give a distorted view of the true conditions in that country. He also cited a list of oppressions to which China has been subjected by foreign powers.

Philip Westbrooke delivered an extemporaneous talk on "Conservation", in which he told of the great wave of interest in conservation problems that has developed since the government launched its work relief program. He described such projects as reforestation, stream improvement, flood control, power development, and others designed to curb soil erosion by wind and water.

Jane Rowley gave her declamation, "The American Infamy", in which she made a fervent plea for an enlightened public sentiment for the curbing of lynchings. She gave a striking word description of a lynching mob scene in a southern state.

The high school student were introduced by Miss Roma Irons and Joseph H. Shipman speech instructors.

Preparations Made For School Census

Directions for taking the annual school census as of May 31, 1936, are included in a shipment of annual financial and statistical blanks now being sent out to all county school commissioners and superintendents.

These reports are to be filed with the school commissioners by all districts in the state at the end of the fiscal year on June 30. The commissioners' reports are then promptly filed with the state department of public instruction.

A special exhibition of ancient Chinese art is being held in Stockholm's National Museum, closing the middle of May.

SLOOP VENUS BROUGHT HERE

J. H. Shipman Acquires Sailing Boat from Manistique

Joseph H. Shipman, vice commodore of the Escanaba Yacht Club, completed negotiations with Paul Vezina of Manistique for the purchase of the sloop Venus and has had the boat shipped via truck to Escanaba. She is now located at the club's marine railway where she will be put into commission as soon as possible.

The Venus is quite an addition to the Escanaba fleet, will carry a large spread of canvas, and should be very fast under sail. She is 32 ft.-6 in. overall, with 9 ft-6 in. beam. Her main cabin has sleeping accommodations for four persons with two additional bunks under the forward deck. In spite of the fact that she is a center board type, there is sufficient head room in the cabin for comfort. She is completely equipped with brass fittings, running lights, fog horn and a 12 guage brass cannon.

Vice Commodore Shipman advises that he will change her name to the Sandra II, it being a traditional name in his family as well as the name of his ketch rig boat which he recently sold to John Anthony.

Four Postoffices Are Recommended

Washington, D. C.—The treasury department has promised the House appropriations committee to undertake an investigation looking toward construction of four new postoffices in the Escanaba area, it was revealed here today.

They are Menominee, Bessemer, Petoskey and Traverse City.

The promise was made during hearings on the deficiency appropriations bill. Proceedings at the hearings were made public today as the bill was reported.

At the request of the committee, the procurement division of the treasury provided a list of seven hundred cities in which investigations for new Federal buildings would be conducted. The four cities were among twenty-nine Michigan cities on the list.

In most cases, the projects listed "are now being investigated and studied to determine the necessary and comparative urgency therefor", the treasury told the committee.

Limits of cost for the buildings being investigated have not yet been determined, "pending survey and analysis of requirements", it was said.

The deficiency bill carries a lump sum appropriation for construction of new Federal buildings. Those to be built will be chosen by the treasury and postoffice departments from the new list of seven hundred proposed buildings and an old list of 355 projects previously recommended but never authorized.

Washington, D. C.—Competition for the Brampton postmastership will be at least four sided, it was revealed today when the Civil Service Commission announced the names of four applicants who have filed for the job.

Applications closed May 8, and these are the only applications received by the commission up to that date. However, it was pointed out, any applications received later but showing by postmark they were mailed in time will make the applicants eligible.

The four appliccants announced by the commission today are Raymond A. Berg, Joseph P. Richards, Mrs. Beulah E. Dahn and Einar C. Berg.

The application of Miss Esther I. Johnson for this examination was canceled because she is under age.

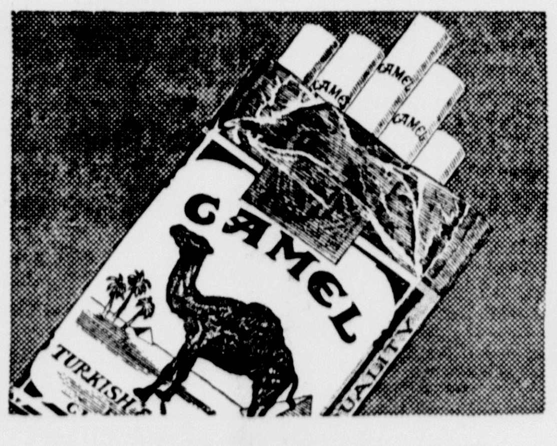
For Digestion's sake ...smoke CAMELS



Busy Americans Find Smoking Camels a Pleasant Aid That Helps Digestion to Proceed Smoothly—Increases Alkalinity!

Many annoyances of our daily lives—rush, worry, noise, mental strain—slow down the flow of the digestive fluids so necessary to good digestion.

Science and common experience agree that smoking a Camel stimulates digestion, increases the flow of digestive fluids...alkaline digestive fluids.

From Camel's costlier tobaccos you get unequaled mildness. Smoke Camels for a comforting lift—for well-being—for digestion's sake! They set you right!

O. D. GLADWELL describes operating a pneumatic drill. "This battering ram is tough on the digestion," he says. "I just smoke Camels, and Camels set me right."

LIGHTNING SPEED of petite Mrs. Ethel Arnold (above) depends greatly on digestion. "I smoke Camels with and after meals," says Mrs. Arnold.

AT THE MAYFAIR ROOM of the Book-Cadillac Hotel in Detroit, Camels are a natural complement to perfect dining. Paul Fischer (right) says: "A glance around our tables proves that those who appreciate quality have made Camel cigarettes their first choice."

664 JUMPS—the record of Joe Crane (above). He says: "Camels set me right! It's just natural for me to turn to Camels for digestion's sake."

METHOD USED. The evidence obtained by scientists definitely establishes the fact that smoking a Camel increases the flow of the digestive fluids. The importance of this in facilitating digestion is a matter of common knowledge.

Costlier Tobaccos!

• Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS... Turkish and Domestic...than any other popular brand.

CHAPTER XVII

Linda didn't mean to avoid seeing Pete. There was no reason why she should. On the other hand, she didn't intend to look him up because there was plenty of reason why he should come to see her. They were still fieneds. It had been more than a year since they had written to each other. And then, when his play had been a success, she had sent him a telegram. She checked that with her secretary.

Pete had been in Hollywood a week, Gilda De Lyse had said. Surely in a week he could have gotten in touch with her! Perhaps success had gone to his head. In the days that followed Gretchen's party Linda had heard much more about Gardiner. Gilda hadn't exaggerated when she said the girls were crazy about him. At least 10 of them asked her if she had seen him. That was enough to make any girl curious. She was very much annoyed that he hadn't called her. She was so annoyed that she found herself thinking of it, even when she was with Dix.

She was lunching with Dix when she first saw him, and it was she who was embarrassed. Pete came directly to her table and held out his hand. "Hello, Linda," he said, as though they had met the day before.

"Hello, Pete," she said. "You remember Dix Carter, don't you?"

"I don't think we've met." They hadnt, but of course he knew Dixs name, had heard Linda speak of him.

"Will you sit down?" she asked, hoping he wouldn't.

He didn't; he was with some others he had to get back to. Linda looked over her shoulder and saw Honey waiting for him. She couldn't resist saying, "Come in tomorrow night, won't you? I'm having some people I'd like you to meet." She gave him the address and then could have bitten her tongue out.

The next night was the Sunday she had arranged so that Dix might meet Thorne! She wanted all her wits about her, and now she had blundered into asking Pete Gardiner.

She was distrait at dinner. The food, fortunately, was superb. Thorne liked good foods and good wine. Linda gave him both. She was careful not to speak of Dix, and careful not to let their conversation approach the personal. And she was pathetically relieved when 10 o'clock came, and her other guests arrived. Dix was with them. He brought the pianist she had insisted upon to accompany him.

Pete did not appear early and he was glad and relieved. She didn't want to force Dix on Thorne's attention, so she waited until nearly midnight before she asked him to sing. Pete Gardiner, distinguished in his dinner jacket and as far apart from the others as he had thought her in those first days in Newtown, came in a few minutes before.

Linda was truly glad to see him. She hadn't time then or freedom of thought to realize that he irked her and that the reason was that . . . that something was different. That Pete treated her as though she were a stranger. Not as though he were in love with her, she would have said if she'd been honest with herself. But why should that matter when Dix's hour was here?

She sat in the shadows, watching him, listening to him while he sang, watching Thorne's face —for the once, inexpressive. Dix was singing magnificently. How could he help be impressed?

"Very nice party, Linda," Thorne said, bending over her hand and saying nothing at all about Dix. After that she bade each of her guests goodnight, and finally there was only Dix and Pete left.

If Linda hadn't had a job that occupied most of her waking time, she might have filled it to its brimming edge thinking of the social problems presented by the three men in her life.

Each of them took a part of her time. There were the constant reminders of Basil Thorne. His telephone calls intruded on her time at home and at the office. His flowers were a charming daily reminder that she resented deeply. His insistent invitations, which she refused, putting him off gracefully, were unsettling to her peace of mind. She had put herself in his debt to help Dix, and she knew she could not drop him abruptly. And yet she knew that she must do it one day soon.

And there was Dix. It didn't occur to her that when she was too tired to see him, he could find other things to do. Dix was necessary to her, and she must be to him. She found time to give him that she needed for her own rest. She found an accompanist and a dramatic teacher for him. He was scrupulous about not permitting her to pay for either, but he used her apartment for his lessons and her company for his audience.

There was also Pete. Pete Gardiner did not ask for her time. He didn't call he frequently on the telephone and he never sent her flowers. But, none the less, he did occupy much of her thinking time. Linda was annoyed with Pete. She couldn't have told herself why. Running into him at official functions, seeing him with a girl on his arm, finding him the center of interest at a table not far from her own, she was unreasonably resentful of him. He never did anything to cause her to feel that way. His manner was always courteous—and politely strange.

She might have puzzled over it long, and arrived at a right and quick conclusion, left to herself, but one bright day he telephoned her and asked her if she'd 'like to picnic."

Linda would like very much to picnic. It was a form of entertainment so simple, it hadn't reached any peak of popularity in her immediate set in Hollywood.

It was simple, natural and something she had missed and not known it. In Pete's car, they rode out to the seashore. Not the smart seashore, but a deserted stretch of sand where they lay in the sun, dribbling sand between aimless fingers, and talking about Newtown and never of picture making. Linda felt nostalgia for the home she had left two years before. Unexplicably, she longed for all things as they had been then, and caught herself up remembering that now she had Dix, which made up for everything. There were silences between Linda and Pete, and in them Linda's thoughts touched on the changes between them. She was glad Pete had stopcaring for her. She wanted to tell him, but the impulse was born too late.

Flicking his cigaret into the air and watching the arch it described, Pete said, "Linda, I suppose you know I'm still in love with you?" It wasn't really a question.

Linda couldn't help sighing. "I'm sorry, Pete. I didn't know. It simply won't work. You must always have known I cared for someone else. He . . . I . . . when I was engaged to you, it was only because you were good to me. I did care for you . . . but not that way. Dix hadn't found himself but he has now, and he loves me. I love him. Then, too, Pete, I think you're having a sentimental hangover. I don't believe you feel the same way about me after all this time."

"I'm a better judge of my own feeling, Linda. I do care for you the same way, but I can't treat you the same way. I came out here expecting to find you grown up, hoping the values you must recognize within you would have developed. You think you're a bright girl, a woman of the world. But, on the verge of making the mistake of your life, you close your eyes to the things you must know to be true!"

"The mistake of my life?'" Linda raised her eyebrows very slightly. "You mean . . . not accepting your proposal?"

"No," Pete answered shortly between tight lips. "I mean that you can't see what a fool this weak Carter boy is making of you, using you to further his own ends, trading on your . . ."

"That's quite enough, Pete. I don't care to hear any more. Dix is a gentleman. He's not using me and he's not a weak boy. Unless you apologize for those remarks, our friendship is at an end."

Pete did not apologize. The quarrel lasted all the way to Linda's apartment, and when Pete Gardiner bowed her out of his car, he was bowing her out out of his life.

HIGH FORESTER OFFICIALS HERE

Cloverland Association Has Meeting Here on Wednesday

Two high court foresters, Mrs. Mary Murphy, vice high chief ranger and Miss Alice Prinn, high treasurer, will attend the Cloverland association of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters in Manistique on Wednesday, it was announced yesterday. The two high court officers will arrive in the city on Wednesday morning.

It is expected that nearly two hundred members of the 14 courts in the Cloverland association will attend the district meeting here. Courts in the cities of Florence and Niagara, Wis., Iron River, Iron Mountain, Powers, Norway, Marquette, Munising, Escanaba Gladstone, Newberry, St. Ignace and Manistique will be represented at the sessions of the meeting.

Delegates will meet in the Knights of Columbus hall at 2:30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon for the annual business meeting Mrs. Murphy and Miss Prinn, are scheduled to speak at this meeting.

Following the business meeting a program will be presented. The meeting banquet will be served under the auspices of the Methodist Ladies' Aid at 6:30 o'clock. Mrs. Anton Weber is chairman of the local committee in charge of arrangements for the meeting.

Garden Committee Expects To Haul Dirt This Week

Due to the fact that the muck bed from which the soil committee of the Manistique home and garden contest had planned to haul muck to the city has had too much water to permit of working a shovel, a change in the committee's plans has been made necessary.

Instead of muck the committee will supply to those who have placed orders a clay loam and leaf mold soil that is said to be a good grade of top soil. The soil is being taken from the Vern Linderoth property, five miles from the city on M-94.

Due to the fact that the soil will have to be loaded by hand, it may cost the committee 10 cents more per yard to deliver the soil. However, as this soil is the class of soil which is being sold for $1.50 per yard usually, the committee feels that most persons who want the dirt will be willing to pay 30 cents instead of 20 cents.

There seems to be a misunderstanding concerning the supplying of this soil. It is purely a service proposition on the part of the home and garden committee, with the city merely a collection agency, providing a convenient place for the receiving of orders. Mr. Beauvais as chairman of the soil committee made the arrangements to secure the soil.

RELIEF CHIEF ROTE SPEAKER

A. M. Gilbert Tells of Work in County; Lauds Gladstone

An interesting and authoritative talk on the relief setup in Delta county was given yesterday noon before the Gladstone Rotary club by A. M. Gilbert, ERA administrator.

An outline of the various agencies from the first, the RFC, up to the present time was given.

Despite the criticisms of CWA, projects carried out brought $563,000 into business channels in the county, the speaker said. The Civil Works was inefficient, Gilbert said, but this was due to the fact that the county was totally unprepared at the time the order came to place men to work.

From July 1, 1933 to July 1, 1934, a total of $993,610 was spent in Delta county for relief. The total for the fiscal year 1934-35 was $1,220,500. Over nine billion dollars have been spent by the government for relief since 1933.

Although the number on relief rolls is now gradually getting smaller, the speaker said the condition in his belief is one of economics and that it will exist for a long time in the future. If this is true, relief agencies are here to stay, and efforts are now being made to secure a central state agency.

Gilbert said it was hard to work in Delta county because of the antiquated setup which required contacting 16 political units in order to get things under way.

He paid tribute to the city of Gladstone, saying they had done more than any other political subdivision of the county in cooperating with the relief department and contributing to the cost of projects. As a result they also had received more than any other unit.

He also praised the relief commission composed of Jas. T. Jones, George Weingartner, Rock, and J. P. Cameron, Nahma, who served for years without pay.

BY FRANK MAC MILLEN
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, May 11 (AP)—The stock market fired a few recovery volleys today, then negotiated a more or less orderly retreat.

Selective buying in the morning pushed up prices fractions to around 2 points. The upturn was on such light volume, however, that many traders refused to participate. The result was that early gains were cancelled or transformed into losses of 2 or more points in many instances.

The listlessness of the board rooms was exemplified by the day's turnover which totalled only 677,750 shares, the smallest since June 10, 1935, when the aggregate amounted to 631,080. The total last Friday was 779,830 shares.

Although the French financial crisis appeared to have eased somewhat, with Socialist Leader Blum announcing that his victorious party in the recent elections was "hostile" to franc devaluation, New York banking quarters still had mental reservations regarding the outlook in Paris.

Little Business News

The quiet morning advance was led by industrial specialties, steels, rails and communication issues.

There was little in the domestic news to stimulate either bullish or bearish sentiment excessively.

The American Iron & Steel Institute estimated a decline in current mill operations of 1 percentage point, but the magazine "Steel" found that automobile and railroad requirements were maintaining a broad and active market and promising to hold steel output around the present level for some weeks.

American Telephone and Western Union were given considerable attention for a while on reports that earnings of these corporations are running well ahead of last year. The former held an advance of ¾ of a point at 155¾, but the latter suffered a net recession of a point at 75.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .5 of a point on the day at 58.6.

The four most active issues of the session were down fractionally to about 2 points. They were Hupp Motors at 2 7-8, General Motors at 63¼, U. S. Steel at 55 and Chrysler at 92¾.

Wheat was unchanged to 1 1-8 cents a bushel lower, and corn was 3-8 to 5-8 easier. Cotton was unchanged to 10 cents a bale in arrears. Bonds were fairly steady.

Fractional Losses Registered On Curb

New York, May 11 (AP)—Losses of minor fractions to more than 2 points among active oils, utilities and industrials gave the curb market an easy appearance today.

The list made a feeble show of rallying during the forenoon when a fairly brisk demand appeared for a few low priced utilities and some of the metal shares, but the demand soon tapered off and leaders slipped back.

Aluminum Co. yielded 3¾ points to 115¼ on light offerings; Humble Oil declined 1 7-8 to 59 7-8 and Sherwin-Williams dropped 2¾ to 119.

Issues showing resistance included Cities Service, Lake Shore Mines, Newmont, Pan-American Airways and Pioneer Gold.

Sales of 156,000 shares compared with 169,000 shares last Friday.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, May 11—Large prospective shipments to Chicago from Kansas City with bearish unofficial estimates of Kansas' yield this season did much today to pull wheat prices down.

Surprise announcement that the May government crop report had slashed the official estimate of 1936 total domestic winter wheat yield almost 30,000,000 bushels compared with a month ago was not made public until after trading was ended for the day.

Indications meanwhile were that 850,000 bushels of wheat would be forwarded shortly by Kansas City to interests here, and private surveys were at hand pointing to likelihood of 132,865,000 bushels Kansas 1936 wheat production, whereas recent unofficial estimates have been around 100,000,000.

Wheat closed nervous at the same as yesterday's finish to 1 1-8 cents lower, May 93 3-4 to 93 7-8, July 85 3-4 to 85 7-8, corn 3-8 to 5-8 down, May 62 5-8 to 62 3-4, oats unchanged to ¼ off, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 22 cents.

Trade comment after the government report was that the probable market effect tomorrow would be decidedly in the direction of higher prices for wheat. Considerable of the discrepancy between the official figures and those of private experts, it was claimed, should be attributed to the heavier abandonment of acreage reported in the Washington summary. The federal experts estimated abandonment at almost 25 percent, whereas private forecasters looked for barely 22 percent.

Suggestions were heard that the government report of wheat acreage abandoned includes acreage to be turned under by the national soil conservation program.

Corn, oats, rye and provisions ruled easy, sympathizing with wheat weakness.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May 90 3-4 to 90 7-8, 95 3-4; July 83 3-8 to 83½, 87⅛ to 87 5-8; September 82 1-8 to 82¼, 86 to 86 1-8. Corn—May 61 7-8, 63 1-8; July 59 3-4 to 59 7-8, 61 1-8; September 58, bids.

BY G. A. PHILLIPS
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, May 11 (AP)—A steady undertone ruled most groups in today's quiet bond market, featured by a sharp rally in some of the recently depressed French issues.

Trading remained at a slow pace, however, sales totalling but $6,852,000, par value, compared with $7,156,000 last Friday. Of this amount U. S. governments accounted for around $500,000.

The most stimulating move in the entire market was recorded by French government stamped 7½s of 1941, which opened 4 points lower at 151, gained strength rapidly and closed at 162 for a net advance of 7 points. The unstamped 7½s, however, broke 19 points to 151 and failed to rally.

Domestic corporate bonds moved in a restricted range. Issues closing minor fractions higher included Alleghany 5s at 94¼, Chesapeake Corp. 5s at 125½, Illinois Central 4¾s at 72¼, New York Central 5s at 91¼ and Armstrong Cork 4s at 106¾. Federal Light & Traction stamped 5s got up 1 3-8 points to 102 3-8.

U. S. government obligations moved uniformly higher. Most activity was carried on in the indirect issues where advances ranged from 3-32 to 6-32. Long term treasury bonds also were a trifle higher.

Losses of 1 to nearly 2 points in Italian government and municipal bonds was attributed to the traditional selling on "good news" following week-end developments in Rome.

The Associated Press averages ranged from an advance of .2 of a point in the utilities to a decline of .3 of a point in the rails.

Tigers Win, 8-3, to Return to First Division

BRIDGES TURNS BACK INDIANS

Bengals Get Five Runs in Fifth to Cinch Battle

Detroit, May 11 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers climbed back into the first division in the American League by defeating the Cleveland Indians, 8-3, here today.

The champions hammered the ball all over the lot at the start of the game, scoring six runs on nine hits off Johnny Allen in the four innings he worked.

Meanwhile, Tommy Bridges was having things his own way with the Indians. He let them have a run in the third when he committed a fielding error and Frankie Pytlak doubled, but he shut them out from then until the ninth, when they got their other two runs. They managed to get only five hits off him altogether.

The Tigers cinched the ball game in the fourth when they scored five runs on six hits. Irving Burns, substituting for Hank Greenberg at first base, was mainly responsible for this scoring. After Goslin and Simmons had singled at the start of the inning, he whacked a home run into the right field bleachers, the first hit to that spot this season. The other two runs were scored on Bridges' single to center, a walk, a wild pitch, Cochrane's single and Gehringer's double.

When Allen finally got the side out, he made a dash for Del Baker, Tigers' third base coach, and then offered to punch Cochrane, but the Detroit players and the umpires changed his mind and no blows landed.

Rock Beats Garden In Opener, 9 to 1

Garden, Mich., May 11—Behind some effective pitching in the clinches by Rabideau, the Rock Spartans opened their league baseball season here today with a 9-1 victory over the Garden team in a well played game. Both teams rapped out 10 hits but the locals were unable to bunch their efforts off Rabideau and could produce only one run.

The Spartans made good use of their 10 hits, scoring in five consecutive innings. The locals opened the scoring early in the first inning on singles by Hennessey and Olmsted and an error. The visitors retaliated with a tying run in the third and went ahead with two more in the fourth. They added another two in the fifth, another in the sixth and topped it off with a three run burst in the sixth.

Chicago White Sox Beat St. Louis, 19-6

St. Louis, May 11. (AP)—A barrage of 22 hits, eight for extra bases, enabled the Chicago White Sox to sweep their series with St. Louis today, 19 to 6, and sent the Browns to the showers smarting under their 13th straight defeat.

The game, played in a drizzling rain before less than a thousand fans, was a pitchers' debacle.

LAWSON LITTLE IS FORCED OUT

Former Champ Fails to Qualify for Open Golf Tourney

(By The Associated Press)

The failure of Lawson Little, double winner of the American and British amateur golf championships, to qualify, featured the far-flung play in the sectional qualifying rounds for the national open championship Monday.

Playing at Hartford, Conn., Little failed to clinch a New England birth when he carded 77-75—152 for 36 holes and yielded the places to six professionals and a pair of amateurs. There was a four man playoff at 149 for the last two places.

Several other big names in golf fell as a number of new comers asserted themselves. The carnage was heavey as the New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania aspirants took their shots at Newtown Square, Pa. Leo Diegel just missed the qualifying set with 154 and Joe Kirkwood didn't even bother trying for the second 18 holes after posting a first round 81. Max Martson, former national amateur champion, was named second alternate from the district after posting 79-75—154. Felix Serafin of Scranton, Pa., just managed to make it with 153.

Revolta Qualifies

Johnny Goodman of Omaha led the qualifiers in his district with a 144. Johnny Revolta and Tommy Armour ran one-two at Chicago with 153 and 154 respectively.

Billy Burke, who won the 1932 open, and Fred Haas Jr., of New Orleans, runner up in last year's intercollegiate, were among those to make the grade at Cleveland as was Maurice McCarthy, Jr. Clarence Doser led the qualifiers at Buffalo, N. Y., with 74-75—149.

Willie McFarlane, QOWT national open titlist; Jimmy Hines, third ranking money winner of last winter's golf, and George Voigt, Walker cupper, failed to qualify at New York where Jimmy Dante led the field with an aggregate of 150. Wiffy Cox of Washington and Joe Ezar of New York were inside the limit here.

Morton McCarthy qualified at Richmond, Jack Munger at Dallis and Sam Perry, twice southern amateur champion, at Birmingham, Ala.

SIX QUALIFIERS

Detroit, May 11. (AP)—Two amateurs and four pros, led by Jake Fassezke, of Jackson, Michigan open champion, qualified today to represent the Detroit district in the national open golf tournament.

Fassezke clipped two strokes from par with a 69 on his morning round, and coasted through with a 76 on his afternoon tour. Another Jackson pro, Louis Chiapetta, placed third with a 147.

The amateurs were Charles Kocsis, Universitay of Michigan star, who tied Chiapetta's 147, and Chris Brinke, Detroit district champion, who placed sixth with a 149.

The qualifiers:

Jake Fassezke, Jackson, 69-76—145.
Bob Gray, Windsor, Ont., 71-75 146.
Louis Chiapetta, Jackson, 74-73—147.
Charles Kocsis, Detroit, 75-72—147.
Stanley Hancock, Detroit, 77-71—148.
Chris Brinke, Detroit, 79-70—149.

SPILLING the DOPE

BY JOHNNY INKSLINGER

Marvin Owen, the Tigers' third sacker whose right to a regular position was questioned at the beginning of the season, cracked out two home runs for Detroit Sunday although the Tigers eventually lost, 9 to 7, to the Cleveland Indians in 15 innings. Owen hit a homer Saturday, also, making a total of three homers in two days —one more than he hit all last season. Joe Sullivan was the losing pitcher in that game but his work was impressive enough to indicate that he may be seen as a starting pitcher more often than heretofore. He relieved Auker in the second inning and for the next 12 frames, allowed the Indians only two runs, but weakened in the 15th.

—o—

Lefty Grove, the Tigers say, has enjoyed a fine streak of luck during the early part of the season, but the once great fireball hurler does not have the stuff he had when he was "tops" in big league pitching circles. All of which may be true. Grove suffered his first defeat of the season Sunday when the surprising Senators whacked him out of the box in the fourth inning. The Tigers agree that Grove uses his head more now than he did a few years ago but that his fast one once his main weapon, lacks the blinding speed it once had.

—o—

Baseball fans who watched the Escanaba Athletics and Groos Papermakers open the season here Sunday were treated to a particularly interesting battle. Both teams performed in midseason form and until the last half of the eighth the score was 1-0 in favor of the talented Groos aggregation. The Papermakers nicked Johnson, A's hurler, for only four bingles until then but collected three in the eighth, which sandwiched between a walk and two errors, accounted for three tallies. Greenless became more effective as the game progressed and in the closing innings, his curves were working to perfection. Only a fair-sized crowd was on hand for the clash, however.

—o—

Omaha, William Woodward's chestnut horse, America's leading three year old last year, made his English debut Saturday in the Victor Wild Stakes winning easily from an impressive field. The big crowd was skeptical of the ability of the American horse and put most of their shillings on Montrose, but the "wise money" boys put large amounts on Omaha just before the start of the race and cleaned up handsomely. Omaha beat Montrose by a length and a half and his jockey later said the American horse had not been extended. The Woodward horse automatically established himself as the favorite for the Ascot Gold Cup to be run June 18.

When Ed Holderman, Escanaba track man, ran the mile in 4:33.8 at the dual meet last Saturday, it was the first time he ever ran the mile—but he clipped over eight seconds off the school's record in the event. Holderman was the Eskymos' star half miler last season but Coach Henry Wylie, himself a former distance runner at MSC, stepped Holderman up to the mile event this year. Holderman never ran more than three fourths of a mile in practice workouts this season but his time for the three quarters showed that he could clip the mile record almost whenever he felt like it. The first time he ran the three quarters he did it in 3:27.5 and last Thursday turned the distance in 3:22.

—o—

It is not likely that Holderman's present record of 4:33.8 will last for long as the school record. He'll probably better that mark before the season is over. Milton Monson set the mark of 4:42 in 1930. Coach Wylie believes that Holderman can clip several seconds off his present record, particularly if he runs into some stiff competition. He'll compete at Houghton in the region Class B meet next Saturday and if he qualifies—and no one doubts that he will—he may enter the state meet the following week. His performance in the dual meet with East Green Bay is better than the present state Class B mark for the mile event.

'STIQUE BEATEN BY RAPID RIVER

Zielbach Knocked Out in Sixth Inning; Final Score Is 8 to 2

Manistique, May 11—The Manistique baseball team, new entrant in the north league lost its opening contest here on Sunday afternoon to the Rapid River team by a 9 to 2 score. Other than the sixth frame when Zielbeck was knocked out of the box and the Rapid Riverites scored five runs the game was played on fairly even terms.

A large crowd of fans turned out at the new fairgrounds diamond for the game which started the season here. Play showed up the need of practice which local players have not been able to get because of lack of a diamond. Members of the team with the aid of CCC youths worked all of last week-end until Saturday night to get the diamond in shape for te Sunday game.

Gustafson Hits Pair of Home Runs in Free-Swatting Game

Perkins, Mich.—Perkins won its initial victory over Gladstone, 13-10 by outslugging the boys from the Bay town. Gladstone sent in three pitchers in an effort to stop the boys from Perkins who slashed out 14 hits, nine of them of the extra base variety.

Gladstone took an early lead, getting to Logan for three runs in the first inning. In the big fifth Perkins captured the lead with a heavy attack consisting of a home run, two walks and three doubles. Gladstone came back to tie the score in the eighth. Peterson went in for Logan and checked the rally.

Gustafson drove a tremendous drive out of the park in the last half of the eighth, scoring two men ahead of him, that gave Perkins the victory. Hitting honors went to Gustafson who hammered out two home runs, a double and a single. Stambulich led the Bay towners with two triples, a double and a single.

H'ville City Team And Dodgers Play 10-Inning Tie, 3-3

Hermansville, May 11—The Hermansville Dodgers and Hermansville city team battled 10 inning to a 3-3 tie and then were rained out in the baseball opener here Sunday.

The city team scored three runs in the fourth and apparently had a stranglehold on the situation but the Dodgers got one run back in the eighth and tied the score in the ninth. Neither team was able to score in the tenth and then a heavy downpour of rain prevented further play.

Maves allowed only four hits to 11 made off Anderson but the latter hurler distributed his bingles nicely.

Murphy Admits New Deal's Tax Bill Is Puzzle

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C., May 11—Plenty of senators don't understand the administration's new tax bill, but here's one new deal senator who admits it.

He is Senator Louis Murphy, of Iowa, staunch defender of the new deal's agricultural program.

Senator Murphy not only admits he doesn't understand the tax bill, but says it contains sections "that no person could understand clearly." Of course, he explained, he hasn't studied the bill—he just "read it over carefully." But he found "many sections," he declared, which defied his understanding.

He quoted one of them. It's on page 45, and consists of a definition of what constitutes a "dividend year" under the bill. Here is the definition:

"The period beginning on the fifteenth day of the third month after the day before the beginning of the taxable year (whether the taxable year is a period of twelve months or a shorter period) and ending on the fourteenth day of the third month after the close of the taxable year."

That, complains Senator Murphy, is "so involved that even the actuary of a life insurance company couldn't understand it."

The tax bill, Senator Murphy avowed, "must receive wholesale revision by the senate finance committee before it is reported for senate action." But the senator is hopeful. "I bel'eve," he said, "that the committee can work out an acceptable revision of the bill, and report it as scheduled during the week of May 18th. But during the intervening time they'll have a great deal of revising to do."
